Fire department changes guard

Chief Carney to bid adieu after 35 years

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

About 35 years ago former Antioch Fire Chief Edgar Simonsen yelled across the neighborhood to an impressionable William Carney, then 21, as he was cutting his lawn.

"I was just married, cutting my grass when he yelled at me to go down to the station and take out an application to become a fireman," recalled Carney, referring to Simonsen. "We need young people," he said.

After 35 years of being a volunteer fireman—the last nine of those years he was the chief volunteer—Carney will be storing See CARNEY page A10

Deputy Chief Dennis Volling, left, will take over the reins of the Antioch Fire Department when Chief William Carney, right, retires April 30.

New fire chief Volling brings 30 years of experience

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

New Antioch Fire Chief Dennis Volling may have pretty big boots to fill, but the veteran volunteer firefighter walks with pretty big boots himself.

Upon the announcement that Fire Chief William Carney was handing in his helmet after 35 years with the department including the last nine years as chief, it was not difficult to find Carney's replacement.

Deputy Chief Volling will assume the title as fire chief effective May 1.

Over the last 30 years, Volling's progression into chief was almost natural as he ascended up the ranks from a volunteer to captain, to assistant fire engineer, to chief engineer, to divemaster and to assistant chief.

"I know I have some pretty big shoes to fill," Volling admitted to village board trustees who approved Volling's appointment as chief.

Volling's humility was in reference to Carney's nine-year tenure and to legendary chief Todd Maplethorpe's 21-year reign.

"It's not going to be hard for him to fill any shoes," said outgoing chief Carney, noting Volling's 30 years of experience.

While Carney's tenure may be known for upgrading the equipment and the vehicles of the department which make it one of the best equipped departments in Lake County, Volling quickly sees his role as overseeing the completion of two new fire substations and possibly a third.

Keeping up with the population growth will be his main concern, he said. And growth has trickle effects ranging from more fire stations, more equipment, and more volunteers.

Volling cringes when he notes, "Within the next 10 years, you're going to see a full-time chief."

Not that a full-time chief is bad in itself, but it foretells of the possible need to hire full-time firefighters with benefits as well, meaning more money and more taxes.

Last year, the fire department dished out a total of $64,000 to pay its 50 volunteers who responded to more than 500 calls. In comparison, $64,000 would only pay for a fireman and a half on a full-time basis.

He also sees the possible merging of the fire department and the Antioch Rescue Squad, which is also volunteer.

Nevertheless, Volling plans to lead the department as it looks to build two new stations.

The fire district just purchased a 2-acre site on Grass Lake Road just west of Route 59. It is also working out a deal to land a site on Deep Lake Road near Depot Street to serve the growing eastern part of the district.

Volling also said property for a third substation may be purchased in the Channel Lake area.

With Abbott Laboratories expanding its facilities near Route 45 and Route 173, Volling also sees additional equipment needs.

"In the future, I see a ladder truck See VOLLING page A10

Zoning board gives approval to Tiffany Farms

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

In the face of a room filled with residents wrestling with concerns about density, the Antioch Planning and Zoning Commission approved the controversial Tiffany Farms development.

The village board later postponed voting on the proposal until May 6.

Michael Cason, representing builder United Homes of Illinois, said the number of units have been reduced from 440 single-family units to 414 lots on approximately 169 acres at the corner of Tiffany Road and North Avenue.

As the development is currently zoned, Cason noted there could be up to 532 units. He also said he agreed to eliminate the multiple-family zoning on the property which could have allowed more than 700 units there.

Effinger's serves Lake Villa since 1927

Effinger's True Value Hardware has been serving residents of Lake Villa and the surrounding area for 69 years, ever since it opened in 1927.

Mike Effinger, a lifelong resident of the area, walks across the street from his home every morning to the hardware store, located at 122 E. Grand Ave. which was founded by his grandfather and taken over by his father in 1960.

Six years ago, Mike took over the family business which started as True Value V&S. His wife Deborah, who works for Baxter Labs, works in the store part time.

"I've worked here ever since I can remember," says Mike, whose knowledge of the home and garden products he carries is well known.

For customers who prefer to deal with someone they know, the Effingers and their two daughters, Sarah, 13 and Katie, 8 have been active in their community, with Mike ready to celebrate 20 years on the Lake Villa Fire Department, where he is a captain.

Effinger's True Value carries a complete line of quality lawn and garden products, but it is the friendly personalized service that is the Effinger masthead. Right now Effingers is having a springtime sale with fertilizer, rakes, shovels and garden seed specially priced.

Effinger's, which carries everything from power mowers to power tools and offers mower repair, is open for its customers' convenience seven days a week; from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Centegra tells concept for medical site

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Conceptual plans for phase one of the Centegra Health System medical office building complex are ready to go before the village review process.

As the parent organization for Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry, Centegra Health System purchased the 6.1-acre commercial parcel on the corner of Skidmore Drive and Park Avenue with the hopes of developing the property into a complex of medical offices.

Centegra officials have revealed a draft concept they hope to build behind downtown Antioch.

The first phase will include an 8,400-square-foot building which will include physician offices for primary care doctors and other specialists such as chiropractors, foot doctors, and family doctors.

"We are looking at ancillary services that would make sense to put in that area and that Antioch needs," noted Gail Bumgarner, vice president of network development.

"There would be a variety of services we're looking at," she added.

The first phase would include parking for 42 cars. Eventually, there will be parking for 228 cars when the entire complex is complete.

Phase two of the concept would include adding 10,200 square feet to the first building. A 33,000-square-foot second building would be added in the future.

Both buildings are planned to be single story.

Centegra officials said they did not expect to participate with the village's desire to develop the adjacent 7-acre parcel into a wetland restoration park with a bandshell.

"Our cooperation is developing that site into something advantageous for the community. We think it is very compatible for both projects to be back there," Bumgarner said.

According to wetland delineation maps, the parking for the health complex appears to be in wetlands although the buildings will not be in wetlands.

Centegra officials hope to break ground by the early summer with

Village takes first steps in restoring new park site

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Wetland markers are in place as village officials began the initial stages of restoring Sequoit Creek into a park behind downtown.

Although the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers had to postpone their visit to the seven-acre site east of Skidmore Drive, an ecological engineer and village officials began delineating the wetland boundaries around the proposed park site.

As envisioned by Community Development Director Claude LeMere, the park aims to be a wetlands restoration project for educational purposes and serve as a community park for large events such as carnivals, the Taste of Antioch and other open-air attractions.

The Army Corps of Engineers is expected to assist the village in restoring the area.

"This is certainly a positive project for them, and we appreciate their cooperation," LeMere said.

The Army Corps often has the dubious task of mitigating wetlands to other locations to make way for new housing developments.

John Larsen of Applied Ecological Services said the park site is currently an eyesore which has become a dumping ground.

"All the park is in a highly disturbed wetland," said Larsen, who surveyed the possible wetlands on the site.

He said restoring the site could attract the return of native plant life and wildlife that once flourished along Sequoit Creek. The woodlands could also be improved.

"The main goal is to create a habitat, so we can attract water fowl and wildlife to the area," Larsen said.

In addition to serving as a wetland restoration project, two ponds will be created to be used for ice skating purposes.

A massive clean-up day is being planned for Saturday, Apr. 21, beginning at 8 a.m. LeMere welcomes all interested volunteers and organizations to lend a hand in cleaning the site.

Waterfalls offers line dancing

Beginning April 18, Waterfalls Restaurant will be offering country-western line dancing every Thursday evening from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Louise Butterbaugh will be the DJ and instructor for the evening. Some new line dances will be taught in addition to the open dance time. Admission is $5. For more information, call 395-2212.

Antioch chamber, CAN expected to merge

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

A resounding vote of affirmation is anticipated next week as the memberships of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry and Antioch Community Action Now Inc. vote whether to merge together.

For the past five years, CAN has served as a separate non-profit organization dedicated to the development and maintenance of the vitality and spirit of Antioch's downtown business district.

The chamber serves to improve the business and social environment of the greater Antioch community.

The presidents of both organizations welcome the consolidation of resources and pooling of manpower.

"There are only strengths and benefits to all those concerned," said James Hyerdall, president of CAN.

CAN would offer the chamber the expertise behind improving downtown specifically, while CAN would have the support of a nationally recognized chamber of commerce, Hyerdall said.

"It will allow us to have a pool of manpower for some of our projects that we were not fortunate enough to have before," Hyerdall pointed out. Most of the 40 members of CAN are also members of the 220-member chamber of commerce.

Village has eyes set on another industrial park

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Village officials are not saying exactly where yet, but the village hopes to land a major industrial park for the village on Route 173.

While there are a number of housing projects under construction or in the planning stages going on in the village, Mayor Marilyn Shineflug also noted that the village is actively seeking new business developments as well.

She told members of the Antioch Rotary Club the village currently has its eyes set on a site that is between 50 to 70 acres along Route 173.

"I can't disclose what we're looking at, but it will be about 50 to 70 acres for light industry," she said.

The village unveiled last month its plans to annex about 37 acres on Route 83 south of Grimm Road and north of Loon Lake. The industrial park would have access off of Route 83 across from Beach Grove Road. It extends east of the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks to the Northern Illinois Conservation Club's wildlife refuge and prairie site.

Municipalities join for auction

The Obenauf Auction Service of Ingleside will be holding its second municipal equipment auction in back of the Fox Lake Village Hall this weekend.

On April 20, a number of cars, trucks and tractors will be auctioned off as well as office equipment, kids bikes and yard equipment on consignment from over 10 area municipalities from both

Through its various fund-raising activities, CAN helped fund in part various beautification projects and the downtown market study, and it looks to participate with the development of the east side of downtown where a 7-acre park is being planned as well as the Centegra Health System medical office complex.

CAN will essentially become a committee of the chamber, and the CAN committee will have a minimum of two representatives on the chamber's board of directors. Hyerdall still expects CAN to meet monthly as a committee. Office position will be determined at a later time, and CAN's funds will be under its own committee budget.

"We're all working for one goal and that's the betterment of Antioch," noted chamber President Ed Cimaglio.

He said CAN would retain its autonomy as a chamber committee.

"Nothing will really be changed. The CAN committee will run the same way as it did before," Cimaglio said. "It will be a co-existence with everyone working for a community goal."

CAN members will vote on the consolidation during a meeting April 24 at 7:30 a.m. at the First National Bank of Antioch. Chamber members will vote on the merge during a meeting April 25 at noon at J.T.'s Roadhouse Restaurant.

Shineflug said village officials are working with Wisconsin Central officials in order to make the railroad more accessible for prospective business to utilize the tracks to load and unload goods.

"We're talking to Wisconsin Central to make the tracks more marketable for business," Shineflug said. She also hopes Wisconsin Central would improve some of the crossings in the area.

Shineflug also pointed out that one new business has already purchased 3.5 acres of a 10-acre industrial park along Route 83 and north of North Avenue. The small industrial parcel is known as the Packard Property.

The mayor said the three industrial parks are measures the village is taking to bring more business to town, to increase tax sales receipts and to add new property to the tax rolls.

"We're trying to add new revenue without adding students to the local school districts," said Shineflug, comparing housing developments versus business developments.

McHenry and Lake counties.

Inspection of items will be at 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., April 19, and the event itself will start at 10 a.m. with inspection at 9 a.m.

Last year over 200 people attended the auction in Fox Lake.

Oakland jumps rope for healthy hearts

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Oakland School second- and third-graders learned that jumping rope is not only a healthy exercise, but they could raise money for a good cause at the same time.

More than 200 second- and third-graders participated in the Jump Rope for Heart program, sponsored by the American Heart Association.

For the American Heart Association it was the 18th year for the annual Jump Rope event, but it marked the first year that Oakland School participated in the event.

In its first year, the second and third graders garnered more than $1,700 in pledges after jumping rope during their gym classes.

"This was a good way to start the program here," noted Principal James Lienhardt. "I was amazed at how much was pledged and that it was just our second- and third-graders."

Jump Rope for Heart is a program designed to teach students about the benefits of regular exercise while promoting teamwork and building school spirit. The event aims to promote healthy lifestyles including proper nutrition, exercise, not smoking and controlling high blood pressure.

"The kids had fun, and the money went to a good cause for the heart association," Lienhardt said.

The event at Oakland was spearheaded by physical education teacher Dave Johnson. Lienhardt credited Johnson with getting the program started at Oakland School.

Monies raised through the Jump Rope for Heart support local research and educational programs to fight heart disease and stroke, one of the country's leading causes of death.

"Hopefully, the students will become life-long learners about keeping healthy and staying in good shape through exercise," Lienhardt said.

State Bank of Lakes offers scholarships

A small pot of tuition gold is ready for the taking for Antioch Community High School graduating seniors.

The State Bank of the Lakes will offer its annual scholarship to ACHS seniors wishing to attend the College of Lake County.

The scholarship fully pays for tuition and books for two years. Applications will be available at the bank and the high school.

Teachers will eventually select worthy students with good grades, financial needs and community service to compete for the full-ride scholarship.

In addition, the bank will offer the Edwin Miles Memorial Scholarship for the final time. Miles was chairman of the bank board of trustees from 1984 to 1993.

Scholarship applications must be submitted by May 1. For more information about the scholarships, call the bank at 395-7790.

Firefighters battle massive field fire

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

It took nearly 80 firefighters from nine different departments more than 6 hours to battle a massive swamp fire between Lake Marie and Grass Lake.

Smoke was reportedly seen from miles away as the blaze on April 11 blackened approximately 80 acres of wetlands on a peninsula that separates Grass Lake and Lake Marie.

A cause of the fire has not been determined yet.

"It was a long one and it was a lot of acreage," noted Lieutenant Lee Shannon.

The first call came in at 5:12 p.m., and firefighters did not return to the station until 11:30 p.m.

Drug bust from mistaken identity

A case of mistaken identity led to the largest drug bust in Grayslake's history. Gages Lake resident Richard E. Warren, 39, was discovered to have in his possession cocaine with a street value of $12,000 April 12. He was apprehended on Route 45, near the Farm Bureau, during a traffic stop in which his car was mistakenly identified.

He said the officer pulled over Warren's car because it matched a description of a vehicle involved in a robbery, but the officer noticed drug paraphernalia including butane torches used to smoke crack-cocaine, in the back seat of the vehicle.

"He (the officer) got permission to search the vehicle and discovered 119 grams, or 4 ounces of cocaine, with a $12,000 street value," said McCutcheon.

Warren was arrested and charged with one count of possession and one count with the intent to deliver.

Warren was released from the county jail on a $50,000 recognizance bond.

Shannon happened to be assisting with a field fire in Lake Zurich near Gilmer and Fairfield roads when he saw bellows of smoke rising 25 miles away in the Antioch area.

"When we were coming back from the Lake Zurich fire, we could see it," Shannon noted.

Eventually, nine different fire departments battled the flames including Trevor, Wilmet, Silver Lake and Randall departments in Wisconsin as well as the Spring Grove, Fox Lake, Round Lake and Newport fire departments in Lake County. Shannon estimated about 80 firefighters on the scene.

Four firemen were transported to local hospitals and treated for exhaustion. Two firefighters from Trevor were released from Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, one Spring Grove fireman was released from the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry and an Antioch fireman was released from St. Therese Medical Center in Waukegan.

"Everybody took a beating on this one. It was a long fire," explained Shannon. "Anytime you go into swamp conditions you have rough terrain to deal with."

Strong winds apparently blew the fire due north toward Route 173, but firefighters set a "back burn" to spare the homes just south of Route 173. Shannon said a fire is set to burn an area and then extinguished so the main fire halts at the area already burned.

"We set a back burn so the fire does not go any further," Shannon pointed out.

Field fires were rampant throughout the state late last week when the temperatures soared in the 70-degree range and strong winds prevailed. Shannon said weekend rains should temporarily prevent field fires for the immediate time being.

Although he said the cause of the fire has not been determined, fire officials suspect the cause to be from wind-blown sparks from lawn fires.

Shannon warned homeowners to check with their local fire departments before doing their spring cleaning with any open burning. Sparks from lawn fires often blow into dry open fields, he said.

The Village of Antioch prohibits all open burning, while in unincorporated Antioch open burning is prohibited unless a permit has been issued.

"Generally, there is no open burning without a permit from a local fire department," Shannon warned.

Police BEAT

ANTIOCH

ACHS student causes problems

Police were called to Antioch Community High School April 11 to intervene with a student who had been disruptive in class. Police arrested Eric Slay, 17, of Lindenhurst, for disorderly conduct.

According to reports, Slay was disrupting class and using profanities. The instructor feared Slay would become physical and called for police intervention. Police said Slay admitted to using profanities and said he was "attempting to get suspended from school." After being charged with disorderly conduct, Slay was released on recognizance bond and will appear in Grayslake court May 8.

Shoplifter caught with whiskey

On April 13, police responded to Armanetti Liquor where a shoplifter was being detained by a store manager. The employee told police Todd Aller, 20, of Lindenhurst, removed a bottle from the shelves and put it in his jacket. The employee said Aller walked past the checkouts without paying for the bottle. A $11.99 bottle of Gentleman Jack whiskey was concealed in his jacket. Police charged Aller with theft under $300. Aller told police he has a "drinking a problem" which prompted the theft. He was released after posting $75 cash bond and will appear in Grayslake court May 8.

Driver crosses centerline

Police arrested Kimberly Stafford, 40, of Antioch, for driving under the influence. According to reports, police observed Stafford on April 14 cross the center line on Route 59, on Bowles road, on Hillsode Avenue and on Route 173. She also ran off the roadway on Rte. 59 and on Bowles Rd. and was speeding 54 mph in a 40 mph zone, police reported. She refused a breath test and was released on recognizance bond. She will appear in Waukegan court May 14.

The things we do for memories

Most people get sentimental about new babies, weddings, perhaps even a new house, but the Old Retired Line Dancin' Lizard got one of those rare lifts recently from her old friend Elaine Lasky.

One evening Old Line Dancin' invited Elaine over to brush up on some of their line dance steps. Elaine was all flushed with anticipation from the minute she arrived at Lizard's house. Lizard naturally assume it was because of the impending evening of stompin' and kickin'. Elaine quickly set the record straight, explaining the newest comet, hovering some cabillion miles overhead, would be easily viewed with the naked eye this particular evening because cloud conditions were perfect. Elaine tried desperately to get the reluctant Lizard outside to view this phenomenon, but relented to wait until after their line dance session had ended. Elaine quickly pointed out it was probably better to wait as the comet became more prominent as the night wore on.

So after several hours of yehaain', Lizard, the ever proper hostess, walked her guest to the door to see her off safely. Upon reaching the door, Elaine requested the Old Retired One to accompany her outside to see the comet—it was, after all, the biggest since Haley's and probably wouldn't happen again for 1,000 years. Now, Elaine is one of those rare people left in this world who literally stops and smells every rose that may cross her path. She takes life in stride and enjoys all the little things life offers, things most people take for granted. Her enthusiasm for this latest scientific discovery, although creating little appeal to the Lizard, had filtered down through her whole family. They had devoted hours of phone calls to this speck up in the sky, while The Lizard herself was busily burning up the phone lines hyping her latest discovery: line dancing. So The Lizard, not wanting to miss history in the making, consented to witness the great constellation above—she figured she would never live another 1,000 years to see the next one as it hovered over Antioch.

So on went the shoes as the two proceeded out into the yard to witness the extravaganza taking place overhead. As the moment passed, Lizard headed back into the comforts of her warm house; Elaine inquired as to where she was going. The Old One, not having the heart to shatter the spell transfixed over

University hosts meetings at CLC

National-Louis University will host a meeting April 25 to discuss its Bachelor of Science in Management program at the College of Lake County, 19351 W. Washington, Grayslake.

The meeting begins at 6 p.m. and will take place in Room C209. For more information or to schedule an individual appointment about any University program, call (708) 510-6100.

was actually using this quiet time more creatively than most would suspect. Instead of jiggling around like an antsy child, she stood still as if interested in the view, while the whole time her mind was trying to come up with a name for her new Line Dance Emporium (in the event she ever won the lottery)—that fact has absolutely no bearing on the story at all.

What counts is that time was consumed and a memory was created as two old women stood silently outside, side-by-side, in the wee hours of the morning, in the freezing cold, staring up at the heavens. There are just some God-given things you can never buy. (Can't imagine what the neighbors were thinking either!)

Exploring the Internet

Do you border on "Internet illiteracy?" Do the terms "information superhighway" and "surfing the net" bring images of over crowded highways and surfboards? Or perhaps you have recently subscribed to the Internet because the computer salesman said it was a good thing to do, but you still haven't the vaguest idea what all the hoopla is about. Then the Antioch Library has the perfect solution to bring you and your software into the 90s.

On Thursday, April 25, at 7 p.m., Joe Accardi from Northeastern University will present a seminar discussing what the Internet is and how the normal guy on the street can utilize it. So between now and next Thursday, start jotting down all your questions, no matter how trivial they may seem, on a pad of paper for Mr. Accardi. (Be sure to leave space between questions so you can write down the answers.)

Now, Mr. Accardi doesn't promise to turn you into a computer guru over night, and you won't leave the seminar feeling the overwhelming urge to buy a pocket protector, but he is hoping to help enrich your computer expertise. The seminar will be held at the library and there is no admission fee—so after you are done reading this column, starting writing down those questions.

Arbor Day

On Saturday, April 27, the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept. will be celebrating Arbor Day at North Park. (North Park is located on Donin Drive, north of North Avenue.) Any families or individuals interested in helping out should call the Parks and Recreation Dept. at 395-2160, and, Happy Arbor Day.

The public has spoken

Well folks, the "cutesy Pringle stories" have come under public attack. If any of you witnessed the unnamed request in Lipservice a couple of weeks back, you are aware that somebody out there feels I think too highly of myself and the anecdotes that go on around me. Perhaps I do, but hey, be grateful that I'm occupied writing about myself and my family members—otherwise I might be compelled to write about people who give their opinions so anonymously.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"...don't forget to call 395-6364.

CORNS AND CALLUSES

Although corns and calluses are so common, many people—especially the elderly—fail to deal with them properly.

Corns and calluses are layers of dead skin that build up into a hardened mass. They can be painful when they press on sensitive nerves.

"Treating corns or calluses yourself can be harmful, especially if you have diabetes or poor circulation," the National Institute on Aging advises. "Over-the-counter medicines, advertised as cures for corns, contain acids that destroy tissue but do not treat the cause."

Your podiatrist can determine the nature of corns and calluses and can recommend treatment, which may include obtaining better-fitting shoes and/or pads, medication, and surgery.

Dangel, Dunleavy's no-nos, defense pace CLC to wins

Joel Dangel and Dan Dunleavy doubled their fun at the expense of Elgin batters Saturday.

Both College of Lake County pitchers notched no-hitters as CLC swept Elgin 10-0 and 8-0 in Skyway Conference play.

"They hit the ball on the ground a lot and the infielders did a good job," Dangel, a Warren Township High School grad, said.

Neither Dangel (4-3) or Dunleavy (4-2) pitcher relied on the strikeout pitch much as both fanned two Spartans. CLC improved to 23-10 overall, 4-0 Skyway Conference.

"I just used the fastball and the slider. I just wanted to throw the fastball in the cold weather," Dunleavy, a Grant High grad, said.

The double dose of no-hitters was the second time that happened in CLC history.

"They were just dominating," CLC Coach

Gene Hanson said.

CLC split against DuPage, winning the first, 10-5 but losing the second 9-0. Joe Barnhardt (2-1) gained the first game win. Mike Niemczyk, Levar Dillard and Pat Goodman each had two hits in the win.

CLC hosts Aurora at 2 p.m. April 19; Morton at 12 p.m. April 20 in Skyway Conference play; and Milwaukee Area Technical College at 12 p.m. April 21 in Grayslake. The Lancers may well be called Team Vacuum soon.

"In the last four games, we have had 49 assists and only three errors. That is a lot of handling the ball in the cold weather. It is hard to catch but the real problem is it is hard to throw," Hanson said.

Illinois Benedictine was the next foe for CLC and the Lancers won 7-2 and 7-3. George Valko gained the win in the first game with relief help from Pat Goodman. Dave Marquardt (1-2) won the second game.

In the first game, the Lancers increased a lead to 5-0 in the third as Bob Hlousek walked and later scored and Cory Clark singled and scored. Mike Niemczyk beat out a key infield hit to load the bases and Levar Dillard delivered an RBI single.

The Lancers had executed well in the first inning as Hlousek, Clark and Niemczyk all singled and Steve Greenspan had a sacrifice RBI for two runs.

Greenspan would add three more RBIs in game one and was four-of-five for six RBIs for the day.

"He was in a hitting slump and he really snapped out of it. I moved him around in the batting order because certain places in the order get certain pitches," Hanson said of Greenspan.

"I did a lot of extra hitting. I concentrated See BASES page A13

SRACLC gymnasts headed for state

The Special Recreation Association of Central Lake County (SRACLC) gymnasts competed in the Regional Special Olympics meet last Sunday at Mundelein High School, with several members medaling.

Those team members placing were:

- Scott Allen — vault II (1st place), pommel horse I (1st place).

- Erik Anderson — pommel horse IV (1st place), rings IV (1st place).

- Bridget Carroll — all-around (2nd place), vault II (2nd place), floor exercise II (1st place), balance beam II (1st place), uneven bars II (1st place).

- Ryan Chaplin — parallel bars II (1st place), rings II (1st place).

- Alex Engels — vault I (2nd place), parallel bars I (1st place).

- Valerie Pennoyer — hoop I (2nd place), ribbon I (2nd place).

Many of the athletes will advance to the state competition to be held June 14-16 at Illinois State University in Bloomington.

The SRACLC also wishes to thank the coaches who volunteered their time to train these athletes for competition. They include head coach Norbert Bendiyen (owner of the Gymnastics Spot), assistant coach Denise Cortes (SRACLC Recreation Specialist), Katie Heinrich, Stephanie Sommers, Liz Friedman, Scott Headley, Michael Headley, Lauren Headley and Sarah Colaric.

Storm drops first contest of season

In their inaugural game, the Lindenhurst Storm girls U-14 team fell to the Lyons S.C. Shooting Stars 3-2.

The Storm play well, dominating most of the game, and actually outshot the Lyons squad. Lyons, however, benefited from a wind-blown shot that was deflected into the net. Several Stars shots hit the crossbar.

Teri LaRoche scored both goals for Lindenhurst, with assists going to Jaime Foster and Stephanie Coby.

Other standouts for Lindenhurst included Lauren Beatty, Kristen Gamlin, Susan Goscinlak and Amie Smit.

'Be on Team' program teams with athletes for spiritual growth

For two years now, the Be on the Team program has been playing a special role in the development of Antioch Community High School basketball players.

The program celebrated the end of its second year Saturday night at the Antioch Evangelical Free Church with a dinner to honor the athletes and their sponsors. The evening featured a guest speaker, prayer, dinner, awards, skits and, most importantly, a feeling of community between area churches and high school athletes.

The Be on the Team program works like this: adults from community churches become "Teammates" to a member of one of Antioch's basketball teams — last year the program began with the boys sophomore and varsity teams, but this year expanded to include girls varsity and JV squads.

As a Teammate, one attends games, write letters of encouragement, prays for the athletes' safety and spiritual development, and sponsors the player and his or her family at the annual dinner. This year's sponsors came from St. Peter's Catholic Church and Antioch Evangelical Free Church in Antioch, St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Lindenhurst, Prince of Peace Catholic Church and Lake Villa United Methodist Church in Lake Villa.

This season, in addition to going to games individually, program members attended two games as a group, meeting afterward with players and their families.

According to Be on the Team organizer Ron Gillespie, "As the program grows it will still honor its commitment to show Christ's love by serving others. The Be on the Team program continues to show that personal relationships between people from local churches, the high school and community can make a positive difference within our world."

Mark Fowler is a Teammate, and he has very specific reasons why he got involved.

"I have a strong belief that God isn't in the school any more," said Fowler. "This way we can help these athletes with their spiritual growth without getting into all that church and state issue."

Gillespie also says that the school administration is very supportive of the program. The administration welcomes the opportunity to achieve a heightened interaction with members of the communities that feed into ACHS.

Saturday's dinner was attended by Northwestern University strength and conditioning coach Larry Lilja, who spoke to attendees on the importance of faith in athletic endeavors and how it translates to everyday life.

After the meal, a player from each squad was recognized as the Be on the Team Player of the Year. This year's honorees See DINNER page A13

Antioch, Carmel lead the field at 25th annual Stevenson Relays

Though team totals aren't the order of the day, the Antioch Sequoits proved to be the team to beat at the 25th annual Stevenson Relays last Friday night.

The ACHS team ran off with a third of the meet titles, winning six of the 18 events. Antioch was particularly strong in the field events.

Antioch started off with a win in the 440 high hurdle shuttle relay, with the team of Kevin Fasana, Mike Castiglia, Geoff Landrum and David Gooch taking the event in a time of 1:08.7, nearly two full seconds ahead of the second-place Niles West foursome.

That same clutch of Antioch hurdlers doubled their pleasure, capturing another first in the 440 intermediate hurdle relay with a time of 1:06.

In the field events, ACHS shone in the discus, shot put and pole vault. John Migalla was particularly potent, winning both the discus and the shot put with tosses of 146'9" and 49', respectively. Migalla also took second in the "Big Boy" 100, covering 100 yards in a respectable 12.2.

In the pole vault, it was Antioch's Jason Erlenborn taking first, finishing a foot over the next best vault with a 10'6" effort.

Carmel also took multiple firsts, like Antioch showing strength in the field events. The threesome of Ruben Rivera, Mike Graham and Jim Koelper won the long jump with respective leaps of 21'4.5", 19'7.5" and 17'1.5".

Graham led Carmel to victory in the high jump as well, his 6'0" spring the best of the Corsair three. Koelper and Jon Styx rounded out the effort, each jumping 5'4".

The Corsair team of Andres Ceritos, Andy Webb, Bill Fusz and Tim Roder nailed down a first-place finish in the longest relay of the event, blazing through the 3,200 meter relay in 8:28.6.

Carmel's final win of the meet was in the varsity 800 meter relay, with Lee Johnson, Greg Zomchek, Andy Klein and Rivera finishing the course in 1:34.8.

Warren was the only other squad with multiple winners. In the varsity 1,600 meter relay, the Blue Devil squad of Steve Brayden, Wil Anchahas, Darnell Smith and Romel Overton completed four turns of the track in 3:33.6. The fresh-soph squad also exhibited its strength in the 1,600, with Dan Schober, Matt Ukena, Carl Morrow and Casper Williams taking first in a time of 3:53.

Smith led the way for Warren in a triple jump win as well, his 42'3.5" leap the best of the day. Teammates Anchahas and Jason Foster rounded out the effort with respective jumps of 37'4.5" and 36'1".

Grant, Stevenson, Round Lake, Lake Zurich, Cary-Grove, Niles West and Highland Park also competed. Grant's Tony Coniglio captured first in the Big Boy 100, finishing in :11.5, while Stevenson captured a first in the girls 400 meter relay, with the team of Swan, Airela, Mondo and Bennet turning in a :52.2 effort.

Starkey's grand slam lifts CLC

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

"Tag up, tag up," Kerry Petricig's teammates shouted.

Melissa Starkey of College of Lake County's softball team had lifted a fly ball to right field. The hit got caught up in the breeze, carrying it over the fence for a 24-20 CLC win over McHenry.

"I just was trying to hit a long flyball," Starkey said.

The Mundelein High grad did more than that this Skyway Conference win. The freshman contributed a triple, a single and scored four runs and had seven RBIs.

"We hit well in Arizona and have not stopped. Everybody has hit well," CLC Coach Sue Garcia said.

CLC had a 19-hit attack against the Scots. They needed to tie the game in the eighth inning as McHenry scored a run for a 20-19 lead. Laura Grassle ripped a triple to center, eluding a tag on a pick-off.

Howes reached on a fielder's choice, and Kerry Petricig singled. Vicki Wyatt received an intentional walk and a grounder by Trish DeWitte forced a runner at home, setting the stage for Starkey.

Offense was frequent this windy and warm day in Grayslake. The two clubs combined for 40 hits. CLC led 8-0 after three innings before the game was suspended due to darkness.

When the first game was over, Howes had scored two runs and had two RBIs; Petricig had a See STARKEY page A13

Registration begins for ACHS camp

Young athletes interested in bettering their basketball skills may be interested in signing up for the Sequoit Summer Basketball camp.

Hoopsters in grades 4-9 are eligible to attend the camp, to be held at Antioch Community High School. The camp will be taught by ACHS coaching staff and local high school athletes.

Week one of the camp will focus on individual skills and will run June 11-14. The second week, focusing on individual and team skills, will be held June 17-21.

Grades 4-5 will meet from 9-10:30 a.m., grades 6-7 from 10:30 a.m.-noon, and grades 8-9 will play from 12:30-2 p.m.

Cost is $50 for both weeks, or $35 for one week.

For more information, contact Coach Jeff Dresser at ACHS.

All it took for Wildcats was hard work and a little bit of faith

According to Larry Lilja, you have to have faith.

As the strength and conditioning coach for the Northwestern Wildcats, Lilja spoke Saturday night at the annual Be on the Team Dinner held at the Antioch Evangelical Free Church. Be on the Team is a program that benefits the Antioch Community High School basketball teams, encouraging them to grow spiritually as well as athletically.

Lilja was a perfect choice for the gathering. A devout Christian himself, Lilja makes it a point to convey his faith to his players. As head of the campus Fellowship of Christian Athletes, he says that over half the NU football team regularly attends the meetings.

With this coach, faith is not just idle talk. To hear him tell it, a football coach at Northwestern has sometimes needed more faith than the average coach.

"We were bad," said Lilja with a tight smile. "Between 1978 and 1982, we didn't win a single game. Imagine being a freshman in 1978, graduating without ever having won a game."

"Against Ohio State one of those years, by the end of the first quarter they had their third string in. We had to bring in the second-string punter because our first-string punter was getting leg cramps."

But the Northwestern program has turned around 180 degrees, as shown by this year's Big Ten championship and the school's first trip to the Rose Bowl in decades. It took a lot of faith for the upstart Wildcats to even believe such a thing was possible — an institution that vehemently stresses academic, NU draws the top scholars, which often aren't the blue-chip athletes. Those that had that faith went to Pasadena. One who didn't watch from home, no doubt wishing he's shown a little more faith.

"We had a quarterback, a senior, quit last fall," said Lilja with a sad shake of his head. "He was that close to a Big Ten championship, that close to going to Pasadena."

Despite losing one along the way, however, Lilja and the other NU coaches kept plugging. They convinced their team there was no short cut to success, but hard work (and they do mean hard) could take them to the top. Hard work, and a bit of faith.

The team probably needed that faith one summer day when they traveled to "Mt. Trashmore," a former landfill that is now a high, tortuously steep hill near Evanston. With a heat and humidity index of 114 degrees — one of many such days during last summer's workouts — the players were no doubt chagrined to find the coaches wanted them to sprint to the top, not once but several times.

Lilja played a short film of that day, with the straining, determined players struggling to reach the top. At the summit, Lilja had planted a sign that simply said "Rose Bowl."

One player, upon reaching the top, was heard to say "I think I can see Pasadena from up here."

"That guy," Lilja said simply, "had faith. And look where it got us."

on driving my top hand forward," Greenspan said.

The Lancers had a consistent effort from right-fielder Niemczyk. The Round Lake High grad had four hits with two triples and four RBIs in the second Illinois Benedictine game. He had four RBIs in the win over DuPage.

"You can just see the improvement each game. He was out of baseball for a couple of years. You can see his confidence building," Hanson said.

Another key element for the Lancers is lead-off hitter Eric Villarreal. The Waukegan High grad was six-of-seven Sunday and is hitting .375. His on-base average is close to 60 percent, Hanson said.

pair of hits, an RBI and a walk; Wyatt scored a run, had two hits and walked and Jen Pitcher had a walk and a run.

In the second game, CLC punched the winning run across in the seventh inning. Pitcher and Petricig singled and Howe reached on an error. The key play came when Jodi Botsford reached on an error as the third baseman overthrew the ball.

The first game featured a huge CLC comeback. Down 6-0, the CLC offense began to click in the fifth. Howes then delivered the game-winning hit, a line drive shot.

included Kevin Geraghty, Richard "Joe" Jordan, Dana Pierson and Emily Bernabe. Special awards were given to ball boys Nathanael and Andrew Judson to honor them for their support of the ACHS teams.

Perhaps the best indicator of the program is the effect it has on the athletes themselves. Sequoit roundballer Kevin Chudd sees the program as a boon to the basketball squad.

"It's great to know that people take an interest in me by writing letters and supporting our team. It really makes a difference when someone cares about our effort," said Chudd.

Fox Waterway Agency home at last at Hidden Cove

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Fox Lake, namely the former Hidden Cove Marina, will be the official home of the Fox Waterway Agency.

"We're here to stay," exclaimed Fox Waterway Agency Chairman William Dam.

After price negotiations with property owner Ray Freeman and state officials teetered on murky waters, the state was able to secure the 3-acre marina and portions of the bay for $656,000.

Freeman's original asking price was $736,000.

Upon the expiration of the agency's lease period at the marina which ended March 31, agency officials quickly worked to overcome numerous obstacles to purchase the property. The state refused to pay more than $656,250 for the property.

Karen Kabbes, executive director of the agency, reportedly expedited the deal by traveling to Springfield to spearhead officials from the Illinois Department of Natural Resources.

She was able to work out a two-year lease period in which the agency will pay Freeman $36,000 annually for 1 acre of land behind the Taco Bell. The compromise allows Freeman to make up the difference of his original asking price. The agency will use the parcel for storage.

Dam pointed out that state officials appraised the property for $730,000.

"The actual purchasing price is substantially less than that," said Dam, noting the $656,000 figure.

He called the deal a win-win situation for the agency and Freeman.

A year ago, the agency rented space at its current site after hopping scotching from three different sites at a Grand Avenue office, a Nippersink storage area and a Spring Grove warehouse.

Dam said the Hidden Cove site is centrally located for boaters cruising the Chain of Lakes between Lake and McHenry counties.

"We now have a permanent site," Dam said. "It allows us to run the marina and keep that revenue and use the building for maintenance."

He also noted that the agency can now focus its attention on other pressing issues such as channel dredging.

"By being at one site," Dam said, "we are able to double our production day—like for dredging and shoreline protection."

Agency changes meeting location

The Fox Waterway Agency is changing the location of its April 25 board meeting and Johnsbury speed limit hearing to the McHenry High School, West Campus, 4724 W. Crystal Lake Rd., McHenry. The purpose of the meeting location change is to comfortably accommodate the larger crowds that are expected to attend the hearing.

"We want to make sure we have room for everyone who wants to attend," commented Stan Mill, agency's director and McHenry County co-chair of the Buoy and Safety Committee.

The board will also entertain comments on the proposed removal of some of the existing no-wake areas in Catherine, Channel, Fox, Petite, Pistakee, Marie and Redhead Lakes. A majority of the areas being removed are within 150-feet of shore and therefore are already covered by the agency's lake shoreline no-wake ordinance. "Should the homeowners in those areas continue to want the areas marked within 150-feet of shore, they may purchase buoys in accordance with our current procedure," state Bob Lindquist, agency director and Lake County co-chair of the Buoy and Safety Committee.

The remaining areas are primarily shallow areas that would be remarked as such. Maps of the proposed changes are available from the agency offices at 45 S. Pistakee Lake Rd., Fox Lake.

Antioch Junior Woman's Club bags lunches for homeless

As the picnic season approaches, members of the Antioch Junior Woman's Club are bagging their lunches, April 21.

But they are giving their bagged lunches to the Public Action to Deliver Shelter (PADS) at United Methodist Church as the do-good organization celebrates a "Sack Luncheon Day."

The Antioch Junior Woman's Club hopes to provide 36 sacked lunches for homeless people spending the night at the shelter April 21.

"Each will get a sandwich, a juice box, a bag of chips, fruit and dessert," said Amy Winters, co-chair of the Services Committee.

Winters said the shelter already had dinner planned for the homeless people staying there, so the club decided to do something a little extra by providing a lunch.

"We just wanted to do something," Winters said.

Funds to buy the lunch food were made available through last year's successful backpack drive at Christmas time. The club raised donations to buy backpacks for PADS. At the same time, the club filled the backpacks with various necessities that the homeless people could carry with them.

"Everybody was so generous with the backpack drive that we were able to provide funds for this (Sack Luncheon)," Winters said.

In other club business, the deadline for the $500 scholarship to attend the College of Lake County is April 15. Candidates must live in Antioch and be a full-time student at CLC.

The last general meeting will be held May 14 at Paradise Cove in Johnsburg. Newly elected officers will be sworn in at that time.

COURAGE prepares active summer

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

A community based anti-gang organization is working to provide many summer events for its members.

Community Outreach Uniting Residents Against Gang Environment (COURAGE) is planning a rollerblading event on April 26 from 8:30-11:30 p.m. at the Waterford Commons Shopping Center on Grass Lake Road in Lindenhurst.

"It's an event for teens and families," said Linda Bergin of COURAGE.

There will be plenty of games. Music will be provided by an area DJ. The event is free.

COURAGE is a combination of teens and adults from Antioch, Grayslake, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst who are doing their part to combat and discourage gang activity. The teen groups meets weekly on Thursday nights from 6:30-8 p.m.

The age group is 13-18.

The teens usually have one night a month to attend a movie.

An adult group meets bimonthly. Usually the group presents a speaker discussing a particular topic relating to gangs.

Members of COURAGE attended a gang seminar in Waukegan last week as well.

In addition the teen group is planning a variety of summer events.

The events include a possible whitewater rafting excursion in July, a camping trip in June and a trip to an area water park sometime in the summer.

Also on the list of possibilities is a roping and rappelling day. "It helps build teamwork and trust," Bergin said.

For information about COURAGE, or for directions to the teen meetings, call Bergin at 356-6788.

Jaycees elect leaders, set new meeting date

New blood will be taking over the leadership positions for the Antioch Jaycees.

The do-good group held its officer elections as it heads into the summer months. Elected office holders include:

- John Sykes of Grayslake, president;
  - Greg Benyak of Round Lake Beach, management vice president;
  - Ed Kanabay of Antioch, membership vice president;
  - Joel Johnson of Kenosha, Wis., community development vice president;
  - Robert Sykes of Lindenhurst, individual development vice president;
  - Donna Bergl of Antioch, secretary;
  - Teri Chipman of Genoa City, Wis., treasurer;
  - Brian Stoddard of Antioch, state director representative;
  - Marlene Olsen of Antioch, local director;
  - Christine Czerkies of Fox Lake, assistant local director.
- "I'm excited because we have a full board for the first time in a couple of years," noted Stoddard, the outgoing president.

"They're a good group. I think we can look forward to bigger and better things ahead," Stoddard said.

The Jaycees will be changing their meeting date to the second Wednesday of the month from May to September. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Regency Inn. A social will follow at the Sand Bar.

During the regional Jaycees meeting, the Antioch chapter walked away with numerous award. Regional President Marie Klanang presented the awards.

The Antioch Jaycees was named the "Outstanding Chapter for the month of March."

Olsen was named the "Outstanding Jaycee" of the third quarter for the region. Olsen was instrumental in organizing the Bowl-A-Thon which helped raise about $3,000 to send three Antioch children with disabilities to summer camp.

John Sykes was named "Outstanding Jaycee" for the month of March.—by KEVIN HANRAHAN

Students tune in to 'Bike Time'

Children and bicycles can be a deadly combination. The National Safety Council reports riders 14 years or younger account for 40 percent of all bicycle deaths.

Students at Emmons Grade School and Grass Lake Grade School learned how to protect themselves and become safe bike riders on April 4 by seeing the bicycle safety video "Bike Time." "Bike Time" is an educational program produced by the Country Companies insurance group for children and starring children. The bicycle safety program was presented by Dan Gerber, a safety education specialist with the insurance group, and arranged by County Companies Agent David Steffenhagen.

"Bike Time" was produced with the help of Illinois State University's Dept. of Curriculum and Instruction, the Illinois Dept. of Transportation and the Bicycle Federation of America.

"Bike Time" is a continuation of the Country Companies insurance group's 35-year commitment to health and safety.

ANNIVERSARY

Delmar and Laurabelle Church

Delmar and Laurabelle (nee Menzel) Church of Antioch were married May 3, 1936 in Woodstock, Ill. They will be celebrating their 60th anniversary on May 5 at the Richmond American Legion with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m.

During their 60 years of marriage they raised seven children: William of Mundelein; Kenneth (Joan) of Zion; Joyce (Nels) Reese of Lake Villa; Jan (Bob) Kubicki of Virginia; Del (Leslie) Church, Jr. of Antioch; Keith (Renee) of Antioch; and Mleca (David) Meyer of Lindenhurst.

The Church's have 14 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Delmar is a retired carpenter, and Laurabelle is a retired homemaker. They have been charter members of All Saints Lutheran Church in Fox Lake for 35 years.

McHenry County Defenders hold plant sale

The Wildflower Preservation and Propagation Committee of the McHenry County Defenders will be holding their annual wildflower plant sale on Sunday, May 5 from 1 to 4 p.m. The sale will be held at the McHenry County College Cafeteria, Rte. 14, Crystal Lake. No plants will be sold before 1 p.m.

Both prairie plants and woodland plants will be included in the sale. The committee feels that selling wildflower plants which it knows have been propagated from seed and not dug from the wild is one way in which it can contribute to its primary goal—that of preserving native wildflowers. Prairie seed will also be available.

Persons attending the sale should enter the college campus at the traffic light, bear right, and enter the main entrance near the Conference Center.

Lists of plants available will be distributed at the door.

Foundation dusts off walking shoes

The Fifth Annual Walkathon to benefit the no-kill animal shelter operated by the Assisi Animal Foundation takes place on Sunday, April 28, at the White Tail Prairie day use area of Moraine Hills State Park.

All are invited to participate as walkers, or as sponsors of a walker for the animals. The six kilometer walk is through a lovely area of the park and promises a morning of healthful exercise in good company.

Sign-ins start at 9 a.m., with the walk commencing at 10 a.m. promptly.

WHAT IS A DENTAL ONLAY?

Onlays are essentially large fillings. The term "onlay" is used when a substantial portion of the tooth crown needs to be replaced. Onlays are used to restore teeth severely damaged either by decay or wear. Since they are often subjected to heavy chewing pressures, they must be made of very durable material. In most instances, this means gold or some other cast metal that can withstand chewing pressures without shattering or deforming. Porcelain is sometimes used. It has the advantage of matching the tooth in color, but it tends to be brittle and may eventually "leak" around the edges.

The use of metal onlays is generally limited to the back teeth, where they are not so visible. The are fabricated, inserted, and cemented in place just like cast metal fillings. It is considered to be a superior type of restoration when excessive wear or a difficult bite are encountered. It has greater strength than a conventional filling, yet requires less loss of tooth structure than a crown.

Long line for new post office

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

A new U.S. Post Office for Antioch will not be in the making any time soon, according to Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

Antioch will just have to wait in line—a very long line, she said.

Antioch is numbered in the 140s, Shineflug said, as far as the list goes for villages waiting to encourage the federal government to build new post offices for their towns.

"I would say at the moment the post office is not planning on moving," Shineflug said. "We're not anywhere near the top of the list as far as actually building a post office—and that's only the first list."

Ideally, a prospective site for a new post office would be in the area between Main Street and the new train station being built on Depot Street, Shineflug said.

She noted that the village is planning to build a new 7-acre park along Skidmore Drive and that there may still be land available in the area to develop for a future post office.

Shineflug also dispelled rumors of a new post office being built in the former Globe store, which has remained vacant.

She said the rear of the Globe store would not be suitable for post office vehicles to maneuver, and she said the large size of the building would require extra security.

"Building a new post office certainly is not within our control," Shineflug said.

'Take Child to Work Day' set for April 25

The Antioch Rotary Club is calling the attention of students and working parents to the annual "Take Your Child To Work Day" April 25.

The event began several years ago as an opportunity to invite girls into the work place. The day has now expanded to include all children.

"Our young people can gain a new perspective on what the work world is really like if they have first-hand experience and observe what their parents do all day long," noted Matt Tabar, Superintendent of Emmons School and chairperson of vocational education for the Antioch Rotary Club.

He added that one of the goals of Rotary is to promote information about vocational service.

Tabar said Regional Superintendent Ed Gonwa has lent his support for the special day and is encouraging schools to participate. Most schools will allow students to participate in this day as an excused absence.

There are two ways to participate. One is to make provisions for your child to spend the day with you. The other way is to allow your employees the opportunity to bring their children to work April 25.

In a related matter, the Antioch Rotary Club proclaimed the Senior Career Shadowing Day a success.

During the day, seniors from Antioch Community High School are matched with business professionals in which students spend the whole day with the professional in a work situation.

"They get a feel for what the job is really like in an area they are considering for future employment," noted Tabar.

This year, 90 students followed 48 individuals in various business fields. Among the fields represented included automotive, banking, child care, construction, medical, education, fire prevention, law enforcement, property management, and nuclear power.—by KEVIN HANRAHAN especially if Abbott has a six- to seven-story building," Volting said. "The new homes being built are also larger."

Foremost, Volting intends to maintain the department's aggressive training program. In fact, Volting initiated the department's dive team. Antioch firefighters also train for confined spaces rescue, high-angle rescue, below ground rescue, and as paramedics.

"We have never turned down our guys for new training," Volting said. "If there's a new type of rescue, we'll send our guys to get involved."

He also plans to maintain good relations with the six fire departments (Lake Villa, Round Lake, Fox Lake, Grayslake, and Newport) in the northern quadrant of the county. Together the six departments have pooled their money to purchase a mass casualty trailer and a mobile kitchen to serve firemen and victims on fire scenes.

"It eliminates duplication. It's too expensive for one department to buy these vehicles that it would use twice a year," Volting noted. The same pooling of resources is also used for training.

Between fire duties, Volting also manages the family-owned business, Antioch Electric Services Inc.

Being a fireman, especially a volunteer fireman, is rare breed.

"It's a job you want to do," Volting as he looks to his new role as fire chief.

"I believe the plan is exactly in line with the comprehensive plan of the village... There will be no multi-family and no apartments," Cason said. The comprehensive plan calls for exactly 414 units.

Phil Burgdorf argued that the density is much higher than Cason described. Taking into account retention ponds, roads and parks, Burgdorf noted that there are approximately 95 buildable acres, which equates to more than 4 homes per acre.

Ed Kozirowski, a former zoning board member and school board member for Antioch High School, urged the board to lower the density by demanding larger lots or through estate zoning.

"If it was all buildable, I could understand, but it's not," said Kozirowski, who said the development could produce 900 students to local schools.

Robert Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building, explained that the new zoning ranges from R-1 to R-3 which falls within the zoning at approximately 2.9 units per acre.

Jim Portalski, a zoning board member, said the development could be worse under the existing zoning on the property which could have apartments on portions of the land.

"Another developer could come in here and build," Portalski warned, "and we would not have the opportunity to oppose a new developer if he came in here."

Carney

away his helmet and boots April 30 when he effectively resigns from the fire department and district.

During the past half century, Carney marks only the third chief for the fire department. Before Carney's tenure (1987-1996), former chief Todd Mapletorpe served for 21 years, and Simonsen served another 20-plus years before Mapletorpe.

Over the last 35 years, Carney has watched the Antioch Fire Department and the First Fire Protection District of Antioch Township grow into one of the premiere and best-equipped departments in northern Illinois.

When he came aboard in 1961, the three-bay fire department was stationed out of the current village hall. In 1977, the department moved into its present building with nine bays, including four separate bays for the Antioch Rescue Squad.

"We thought we would never fill this one, and we're already full," Carney said.

Not only that, but the firefighters are much better equipped to battle fires today than they were yesteryear. They have gone from rubber coats to $1,000 fire resistant clothing.

"We've come a long way," Carney said. "We didn't have air masks and tanks in the old days. We just went into a house eating smoke."

Furthermore, the 50-plus corps of fire-fighting volunteers that Carney has led for the last nine years is among the most educated and trained. They are experts in various specialized areas, from dive team specialists to high-angle rescue specialists to life-saving paramedics. In fact, Carney spearheaded the aggressive training program for the department when it became state-certified back in 1971 when he was a lieutenant.

"Like everything: Education is the answer, from training, public awareness to fire prevention programs," Carney noted.

He also proudly notes that his the volunteers are paid only $9 an hour when they are on call. Last year, the department paid out $64,000 in salaries to 50-plus volunteers on call.

In fact, Carney remembers his first salary of $80.

"We only pay our guys once a year, usually around October or November," Carney said. "It's not much, but it's like a Christmas bonus."

To compensate, Carney worked for Commonwealth Edison where he just retired after 35 years of service with the electric company.

What the department saves in salaries, it spends for the best and most up-to-date equipment. From fire engines to pumper engines to grass fire vehicles to command cars, the Antioch Fire Department has it all, except for maybe a high-ladder truck.

"When you don't have to spend tax dollars to hire people, you can spend it on equipment," Carney said. "We're fortunate."

But there is nothing volunteer about the professionalism of the force and being able to handle all the equipment, however.

"We've always prided ourselves on our response time," Carney said. "The first truck is usually on the road in two minutes or less. Not many paid departments can beat that." The district is also one of the largest in Lake County with a 34-square-mile coverage area, and it responds to 500 calls annually.

Spending money on public education and fire awareness has paid dividends though, he noted.

"I may be exaggerating a bit, but it seemed like we were responding to at least two house fires a week," said Carney, reflecting on the last 35 years. "If I have seen anything in 30 years, I've seen a reduction in fire loss which is attributable to fire prevention and education."

Although Carney may be resigning his post as chief, don't expect his helmet and boots to get dusty in his closet. He may escape to his cottage near the Wisconsin Dells from time to time, but being a fire volunteer is in his blood.

"I'm not going to quit totally," Carney said. "I'm still going to volunteer."

Forest preserve to vote on adding 196 acres

Acquisition would protect Grant Woods

CLAUDIA M. LENART
Regional Editor

It stretches for 2 and one-half miles in northwestern Lake County and it's one of the Lake County Forest Preserve's most diverse sites. At the end of this month Grant Woods is expected to grow, making it also one of the forest preserve district's largest sites.

On April 26, the full forest preserve board will vote on acquiring 196 acres along Fairfield and Monaville roads and situated between the south and north Grant Woods sites. The $3.5 million acquisition has already been approved by the Acquisition, Development, Finance and Enterprise committees.

Michael Fenelon, director of planning, conservation and development for the forest preserve, described the proposed site as "an undulating, rolling piece of topography, broken up with blocks of oak and hickory. You don't get to see all of the site at once."

Suzi Schmidt, District 3 forest preserve commissioner and chairman of the acquisition committee, said the forest preserve has been interested in the site since 1989. The district wanted to buy the site at that time, however, the Village of Lake Villa, which has a say on land use within its limits, would not approve the purchase.

When Lake Villa approved the forest preserve purchase of Sun Lake Forest Preserve in the area of Grass Lake Road, east of Rte. 83, it was agreed the Lake Villa Township Baseball League could use 12 acres of the site for fields. That plan ran into years of unfruitful negotiations between the village and forest preserve. Finally, a compromise was reached. The village would buy 12 acres of land near Grant Woods and swap it with 12 acres at Sun Lake. Thus, the village owns the baseball fields free of any forest preserve stipulations.

Schmidt said she believes at about $19,800 per acre, the acquisition is a fair deal. She said the north part of Grant Woods was acquired in 1989 for about $17,000 per acre.

"The price has gone up as all land has. We had a very willing seller and it was a fair

'Quality First' increases money to schools

House passes Daniel's plan, money could come next fall

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

In a move that could bring money to area school coffers as early as next fall, the Illinois House of Representatives passed the "Quality First" Education Plan sponsored by House Speaker Lee Daniels (R-Addison) and forwarded it to the Senate for consideration.

The House is also considering wording for a referendum to be placed on the November ballot which would change the way schools are funding throughout the state.

"On its own this is the most drastic and major plan brought forth on education to date," said State Rep. Tom Lachner (R-59th), who serves on the education committee. "This is really a good plan because it gets immediate results to schools and each school district would see an increase in per pupil funded from the state. It is not a funding plan but a major change in the way we support education in this state."

The Quality First Education Plan will increase school funding by $500 million without a tax increase. Each school district will receive additional funding of $225 per pupil. Unit districts would receive $250 per pupil. Incentives will be provided to districts who consolidate for up to five years after consolidation. Amounts will be based on 1995 average daily attendance.

According to Lachner, this money could be used at the discretion of the local school board on anything the district needs with the exception of teacher's salaries.

The plan is receiving bi-partisan support because of its ability to increase funding for districts and to restore additional local control to individual districts.

"I like the plan because it is a way to fund schools that is going to pass the general assembly," said State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (R-60th). "In our area we need adequate education funding for all schools. Absolute equity across the state is not possible at this time and the only way to make it possible is for taxpayers in our area to fund it. This provides additional funds to each district in the state."

Other aspects of the plan include:

Establishing high quality academic standards including:

- exit exams for seniors, which must be passed to receive a high school diploma
- replacing IGAP (Illinois goals assessment program) testing with a different test administered at the 3rd, 6th, 8th and 12th grade level.

Increasing local control

- utilize block grants to improve flexibility
- promote competition, innovation with Charter Schools
- eliminate Goals 2000

program mandates

"As part of increasing local control, all holidays would become commemorative with the local school board setting their own calendar for days off," said Lachner. This could save See QUALITY page B2

Carmel audience invited to stroll along '42nd Street'

When music Director Kent Parry chose the production for Carmel High School's spring musical he had no idea the plot would become so authentic.

In "42nd Street," a chorus girl becomes a star when the leading lady breaks her ankle. At Carmel, one of the students had to be moved from the chorus when one of the girls was hurt during pom pon auditions, Parry said.

More than 100 students will bring the musical to the Carmel stage April 19-21. Parry said he had never considered that particular show until junior Trisha Glazik, the student choreographer, suggested it. He decided the talented students he had were up to it.

"I fell it's one of our strongest shows. It's a very high energy show, with high tempo," he said. "We have some very good talent. I feel people who come and see the show are going to feel very good."

Familiar numbers that will get members of the audience tapping their feet include "We're in the Money," Shuffle off to Buffalo," "Quarter to Nine," and, of course, "Forty-second Street."

The cast includes senior Jeff Schlessler as Julian, sophomore Joe Tapper as Billy Lawlor, sophomore Silvana Rodriguez as Dorothy Brock, and freshman Amber Dusak as Peggy Sawyer, the chorus girl who becomes a star.

Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. April 19 and 20 and 2 p.m. April 21 in the Carmel auditorium, on Rte. 176 in Mundelein. Tickets are $5 for adults, and $4 for students and seniors. A special admission price on Sunday will admit senior citizens for $2.—by SUZIE REED

Political changes spur Demo hopes

The biggest hope for any semblance of a Democratic showing in the Lake County November general election is change going on in the political face of the county, particularly within Republican ranks.

The county still is lopsidedly Republican. Democrats failed to field candidates in 17 primary races from County Board to the Illinois General Assembly. How successful they are will help determine whether there will be another GOP sweep like 1994 when an avalanche of straight Republican ballots recaptured the county clerk's office, in Democratic hands for nearly two decades. The deadline for filling candidate vacancies through central committee action is May 20.

The latest Lake County primary saw Republicans outpolling Democrats 63,841 to 17,383 in a sub-par turnout for both parties of a little better than 31 percent of registered voters.

County Democratic Chairman Terry Link gamely makes a case for his party's resurgence on the basis of disarray in national GOP ranks that will make President Clinton a better choice than Republican Sen. Bob Dole. More important to Link's cause, though, is how independent-minded Republicans react to their party's county ticket.

State Rep. Al Salvi's stunning victory suggests that mainstream Republicans are ready, willing and able to vote against party dictates when they think party leadership is misguided as in the case of stacking the deck in favor of Salvi's opponent. The defeat of three County Board incumbents running with a party endorsement suggests further that Lake County Republicans will ignore party leaders who misread the electorate's growing aversion to rampant growth and development. The 1996 county Republican primary also saw more contests taking place for precinct committee posts which is an indication that the party is not a monolithic organization.

The Democratic star in Lake County this fall unquestionably will be Mary Ellen Vanderventer, a professional in government with excellent credentials, who is running against veteran GOP wheelhorse Bob Neal for county recorder of deeds. Recorder isn't exactly a glamor position, but remember that Carole Moseley-Braun held the office before propelled to the U.S. Senate with momentum generated by Republican crossover voting in both the primary and general election.

Combine the growing propensity for independence on the part of Lake County Republicans with a history of ticket-splitting in moderate Shore Line precincts and an argument for a serious Vanderventer challenge takes on substance. Democrats have another intriguing challenge, holding on to a County Board seat if they can produce an attractive opponent for County Board Rep. David Stolman (R-Buffalo Grove), a one-time Democrat, who became a Republican last year to insure his reelection. Turning on a turncoat is one of the most relishing motivations in American politics.

Just like an overmatched golfer, Democrats have reason to keep trying if they can score well in a couple of spots.

Durbin flunks test on spending record

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Democratic Congressman Dick Durbin, who has his sights set on becoming Illinois' new U.S. senator, flunked a test on Congressional spending conducted by the National Taxpayers Union.

NTU rates U.S. Representatives and Senators on every vote that affects taxes, spending and the national debt. The study is regarded the fairest and most accurate guide available on congressional spending. Latest figures are for the 104th Congress, 1st session of 1995.

Durbin received an F on a rating of 25 percent. Every roll call was analyzed. A grade of A indicates the member is a strong supporter of responsible tax and spending policies. B represents a good record on controlling spending and taxes. C grade means the official scored at least 50 percent. D indicates the member has a poor voting record. An F places the member in the "Big Spender" category.

To put NTU rankings into perspective, Republican Congressman Phil Crane, whose district includes west Lake County, received an A rating on 88 percent, one of the highest in Congress. Republican Congressman John Porter, representing eastern Lake County, received a B rating on 83 percent.

Crane had one of two A's in the Illinois delegation. Porter had plenty of company in the B rating including the highly respected Henry Hyde of Park Ridge, Harris Fawell of the western suburbs, and Michael Flanagan, who unseated the infamous Dan Rostenkowski. The other A was won by Don Manzullo, whose north central district includes McHenry County.

In his battle with Al Salvi, Durbin is attempting to position himself as a centerist and a moderate. How's he going to shake his record as a "Big Spender" when the record is compared?

MUSEUM BENEFIT—Gerry Traxler, one of Lake County's most durable musicians, will conduct his 80-voice adult mixed show chorus Saturday and Sunday, May 18 and 19, in performances beginning at 8 p.m. at Libertyville High Auditorium to benefit the new Great Lakes Naval Museum.

Traxler's latest production is entitled "Latin Beats and Other Treats." The maestro, a resident of Vernon Hills, founded the choral group more than two decades ago.

LATE SHOW—The explosion of flowers lining the highways and byways of Long Grove that trumpet the arrival of spring are struggling to make their 1996 appearance. Crocus, normally here and gone by April 10, are just beginning to appear. Daffodils and jonquils, usually in full bloom by mid-April, are expected to be three weeks late this year.

COUNTING—Volunteers will be working this spring and summer to identify more than 300 bird species likely to be seen in and around the Liberty Prairie Reserve, a conservation area bounded by the DesPlaines River and Rte. 137 and 120. They've counted over 170 already. Bird watchers are welcome and can make arrangements for walks by contacting the Liberty Prairie Conservancy, 32400 N. LOTS OF SUDS—Despite another microbrewery coming on line, the title for local beer production is expected to be held for many years to come by the long defunct Ziemann Brewery.

Ziemann grew out of World War II in a former creamery at Gilmer, just off Midlothian Rd., and developed a substantial following in Lake County taverns and bars on the north side of Chicago. To my knowledge, the company only brewed draft beer.

The newest micro is Flatlander's Restaurant & Brewery, about to open for the public in a new building at the corner of Milwaukee Ave. and Old Halfday Rd. (Rte.45), Lincolnshire.

I have a recollection of Ziemann Brewery that has always fascinated me. The sinks in the Brewery were equipped with three faucets—hot water, cold water, and the beer that made Gilmer famous.

—LETTERS TO THE Editor—

Developers must pay Editor:

No provisions were ever made or considered by the Vernon Hills village trustees for a land donation for a school site. It should have been part of the negotiations by the previous owner, the Zale Group, and School Board Dist. 128 trustees. Where were our representatives? Everybody was thinking about sewer and water hookup, open space and a golf course.

As taxpayers, Vernon Hills residents and Libertyville residents should cry out and demand the land needed to build the new high school be provided by the developer.

The Village of Libertyville trustees and Dist. 128 school board should meet and plan a referendum in the next nearest election for monies to build the new high school in Vernon Hills on the Cuneo Property that has been designated for an 18 hole golf course.

This could save taxpayers millions of dollars. When this idea is accomplished, we can close the Brainerd Building as a school. There would be plenty of empty seats at the Butler Lake School with 40 percent of the student body leaving to attend the new high school in Vernon Hills.

Trustees for the Libertyville Cook Memorial Library should not be too hasty in determining their future goal and home site but rather get by for now at their present location on Cook Street. A good future location can be the old Brainerd High School building. You won't have to close any streets or tear down any bank building or move out of town like the post office did.

Symbolizes regime Editor:

State officials say that the proposed Rte. 53 Tollway is needed to complete a link in the regional highway network. We say they should look to the recent elections for that link.

The huge gains the County Board's open-space bloc posted in the recent Republican primary demonstrate that residents want a future with fewer tolls—not more of them. They want to ease the tolls that development took on their wallets and their way of life under the leadership of ousted Board Chairman Robert Depke.

Government plans will increase uninsured population in U.S.

SCOTT A. SHALEK

On April 19 the United States Senate is scheduled to consider legislation intended to provide insurance portability for Americans. In actuality, this legislation will not only increase the uninsured population, but will increase the cost of insurance for the individuals who need it the most.

Senate bill 1028, introduced by Senators Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Kassebaum (R-Kan.), would: 1. promote small group insurance purchasing cooperatives; 2. require insurance companies to guarantee issue to certain individuals; and 3. require employer-sponsored health plans to give credit to pre-existing conditions for persons moving from one employer group to another. Although the Kennedy/Kassebaum bill sounds good politically, it has several very serious flaws which will result in higher insurance premiums, less choice for the consumer, more uninsured Americans and fewer insurance companies providing coverage.

Neither Republicans or Democrats are willing to address the real issue, which could lead to positive health care reform and drastically reduce the number of uninsured Americans. The real problem is not portability and guaranteed issue, it is affordability.

What good is it if we make health care portable and guaranteed, but no one can afford it?

Our legislators in Washington need only look at the states that have enacted laws requiring insurance carriers to guarantee issue in the individual market. It has been a complete disaster. Insurance carriers have withdrawn from the marketplace, premiums have skyrocketed and the number of uninsureds has soared in a very short time. In the state of Washington, more than 33 insurance companies left the market and rates increased by 34 percent after such legislation. Recent estimates place the loss of individual coverage in New York at well over 64,000, following the implementation of individual market reforms. (Kaiser Family Foundation, 1995.) Similar problems have arisen in Kentucky, Maine, New Jersey and Vermont.

The National Assn. of Health Underwriters (NAHU) is an association of health and disability professionals servicing 119 million Americans. NAHU believes that all Americans should have access to affordable health insurance and offers the Health Credit as an innovative way to achieve insurance coverage through the competitive private sector.

The proposed Health Credit is a refundable tax credit that would insure all Americans, regardless of income, have a basic level of resources to purchase health insurance. It creates a fair system which will See COMMENTARY page B5

Republican organization: 'This election is about freedom'

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Is everyone rested, everyone ready? asks the 8th Congressional District Republican organization in heralding its annual dinner meeting, April 29 at 6 p.m.

Crane

The committee's invitation declares that the '96 presidential race is about freedom and "Republicans must stand up, get involved and work to oust Bill Clinton from the White House."

"The time has come for us to cast aside our devotion to other candidates we embraced in the primary election... we must now meet the challenge that lies ahead and remember, we can do the job."

Tickets for the event, to be held at Concorde Banquet Hall on Rte. 12 are $20 each.

Congress Phil Crane and a "special friend" are headlining the event.

For more information contact Venita McConnell, 526-7851.

Unhappiness—All is not well these days on the Wildlife Advisory Committee of the Lake County Forest Preserve. Some members are irritated with the assertive style of Chairman Steve Packard and the fact that he's not a Lake County resident.

Packard, who holds a command position with the influential Illinois Nature Conservancy, was recommended for the county post by Tom Donnelly, who stepped down when committee activities began making headlines.

Several committee members are worried that Packard will transport the Nature Conservancy's tree destruction policies in Cook and DuPage Counties northward. Who says politics aren't involved in conservation business? Forest Preserve President Jim LaBelle admires Packard.

Response planned—The growing anti-Rte. 53 coalition is considering potential responses to the April 25 address to the Transportation Management Assn. of Lake County by Linda Bolte, deputy director of planning at the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS).

Bolte will speak at 9 a.m. at Raffaelli's, Libertyville, on "Destination 2020," the regional transportation plan for northeastern Illinois. The anti-53ers don't like the stance of highway experts that the controversial tollway will be a done deal by then.

Martini

Successor—Stan Mill, a registered professional engineer, is emerging as a potential successor to Dr. William Dam as chairman of the Fox Waterway Agency. Mill, a resident of Johnsburg, is a director representing McHenry County. The restless physician is ready to move on.

...

Neal top humanitarian—Bob Neal, GOP candidate for Lake County Recorder of Deeds, has been named a Melvin Jones Fellow by Lions Club International Foundation. It is the highest form of recognition given by the foundation.

Neal received the award for his untiring effort in conducting a variety of community and humanitarian projects during the years he was with the Wadsworth Lions Club. Among the programs he has participated in and or chaired are food baskets for the needy and for families of cancer patients at Midwestern Regional Medical Center, the barn painting at Millburn Museum, Candy Days, Operation Baby Buckle and Sight First.

Neal has been active in the Lions for nearly two decades.

ter symbolizes this defeated regime than the proposed Rte. 53 Tollway. Certainly no other project would unleash development over such a sprawling territory, crowding our schools, our local roads and our environment. Citizens want development, such as Prairie Crossing, that conserves the very amenities that make Lake County such an attractive place to live. Everyone agrees that traffic needs to be relieved and growth accommodated. And, judging by the landslide support for challengers to the County Board's pro-growth leaders, nearly everyone agrees that they should have other choices besides this proposed tollway.

Since 1993, when the General Assembly revived the Rte. 53 Extension as a tollway, open-space candidates have unseated the chairman of the Forest Preserve Dist., the chairman of Planning, Building and Zoning and, of course, the chairman of the board. In each case, these triumphs came in districts affected by the proposed tollway, and they came against officials closely aligned with the board's pro-tollway majority. That's not a coincidence. That's a connection.

We urge the rest of Mr. Depke's Republican machine to listen to the balloting, rather than their political boss—to heed the elections rather than the engineers. This is about their future as much as their constituents'.

Rte. 53 parallel not first

Editor:

Recently in your paper, former Illinois State Rep. John Matijevich challenged the tollway to show any two separate tollways that run parallel to each other and are only a few miles apart.

One example that comes to mind is in New Jersey. The Garden State Parkway and the New Jersey Turnpike parallel one another for about 15 miles between Union to Clifton and Elizabeth to Ridgefield Park, respectively. The distance between the two tollways varies between approximately five to eight miles. Coincidentally, the distance between the proposed north extension of Rte. 53 and the Tri-State Tollway also varies between approximately five to eight miles.

The environmental impact statement for the Rte. 53 extension is currently being drafted by the Illinois Dept. of Transportation. The environmental impact statement will address many of Mr. Matijevich's concerns about the transportation needs of Lake County.

Knocked on 3,500 doors

Editor:

Now that things have settled down and my life is getting back to normal after the long road to the primary, I'd like to thank everyone for the support and vote of confidence.

I'm proud to represent the Republican party in Dist. 7 (Warren Township) this November and honored by the overwhelming trust you have placed in me.

I worked hard covering 15 of the district's 20 precincts by foot; knocking on an estimated 3,500 doors. It was a pleasure meeting the voters of Dist. 7, and in several instances reacquainting myself with friends from high school and former neighbors and co-workers. I'm also grateful for the many individuals who took time out of their busy lives to help with my campaign; stuffing envelopes, making phone calls and so much more.

With the general election ahead of me, I'm ready to continue to work hard and once elected on Nov. 11 will represent your interests on the County Board. Thank you.

Dist. 7 Republican candidate

Easter Bunny politicized

Editor:

Did anyone take their children to the Easter parade in Antioch? The kids were all excited to come to see a parade, get some candy and see the Easter Bunny (the highlight of the event).

Imagine my surprise and disgust when the Easter Bunny came down the road and was sporting a political sticker for Bob Neal on his chest. Neal was the only politician I noticed campaigning in the parade, which is OK with me, but this is a parade for the children—to celebrate Easter—to see the bunny. I would like to know who thought this was acceptable to do. Did they think it was funny?

What's next, bumper stickers on Santa's sleigh?

Karen Sowul

Editor's note: Bob Neal is the Republican candidate for Lake County Recorder of Deeds.

Late starter misguided

Editor:

Maybe I'm missing something. If so, I hope someone will enlighten me.

Mark Ratfelders claims he's running for the County Board to give voters a choice. Excuse me, but isn't that what they just had?

And they chose Al Westerman. If Ratfelders is as disturbed as he claims by the idea of campaign help from outside the district, why didn't he challenge Depke himself? Depke is, after all, the master fund raiser who has taken in tens of thousands of dollars each year from sources well outside his district.

Big-money political action committees from Oakbrook and Springfield helped ensure his past victories. Every developer, road builder, gravel supplier, etc., doing business with the county has been "encouraged" to attend his fund raisers. Anyone who saw Depke's and Westerman's campaign literature knows who had the bigger war chest—and why.

So why didn't Ratfelders run against Depke as a Republican? Didn't he have Westerman's courage?

Or is it that Ratfelders and Depke are just two peas in a pod?

Having finally dumped Depke, why on earth would Dist. 7 (Warren Township) voters want to go back to the same old thing?

enable everyone to obtain insurance protection, achieving universal coverage through incentive, not mandates.

NAHU's proposed Health Credit retains the employer-based system of health insurance, but for the first time equalizes the tax breaks for those who must, of necessity, obtain insurance outside the employer-based system. This includes the unemployed and people between jobs, early retirees, the self-employed, partnerships and a large portion of the uninsured population who have no incentive to obtain coverage. The same health credit would be available to people on welfare, thus encouraging a movement into the work force and removing the present incentive to stay on welfare to avoid losing Medicaid.

I urge every voter who is concerned about health insurance coverage to call or write their senators and representatives and urge them to reconsider the pending legislation which will increase costs and the number of insureds. Instead we must work for a solution that makes health care accessible and affordable to all Americans.

Get moving — take a walk for a healthy heart

The American Heart Association wants to help people to become more physically active, and they believe they have found a way to do it. "The Healthy Heart Walking Tape," narrated by Rita Moreno, is a unique walking program that will help to increase stamina and fitness, and improve overall cardiovascular health.

"Walking is one of the best forms of exercise and it is something almost everyone can do," said William W. Ashley, MD, president of the American Heart Association of Metropolitan Chicago. "Walking not only helps maintain a healthy heart, but it also helps to control weight and reduce stress."

"The Healthy Heart Walking Tape" features a 30-minute beginners walk and a 30 minute intermediate walk for those ready for a faster pace. The tape features original music composed to keep walkers moving at a pace that will provide the level of aerobic workout recommended by the AHA. "The Healthy Heart Walking Tape" published by Simon and Schuster Audio is available in bookstores nationwide.

"An exercise program should be rewarding so, stay with it," said Ashley. "A regular walking program using this tape will help achieve one's fitness goals."

In addition to the walking tape, the American Heart Association also has released "The Healthy Heart Walking Book" published by Macmillan USA. Unlike any other walking book on the market, it features a 12-week walking diary to customize a program to fit one's needs. Starting with a one-mile walking test to assess a fitness level, this book helps build a walking program by providing tips on how to get started, the best places to walk, how to find good walking shoes, what to eat for optimum health and fitness, how to overcome age-old excuses and stay motivated and how to put more fun into walking.

Workout to raise funds for City of Hope

Chicago is hosting Workout for Hope—America's largest and most dynamic health and fitness event—from 9 a.m. to noon, Saturday, April 20, at the Rosemont Convention Center. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m. Leading the Chicago Workout will be Co-Chairs Beverly Beck and Maryellen Bowman. For event information and registration forms call (800) 779-5893.

The event has something for everyone with a host of fitness activities including a variety of aerobics, and for the first time at the Chicago Workout, step aerobics. Teams of presenters in costumes will lead the workout, each team with a different theme. There are no endurance tests or records to beat because everybody exercises at their own pace.

Workout for Hope began eight years ago in San Francisco as a fund-raiser to support HIV/AIDS and related cancer research at the City of Hope National Medical Center and Beckman Research Institute. The event has grown to include more than 70 cities nationwide. Participants collect donations in the weeks prior to the event and then work out from one to three hours on event day with the top fitness teams in their area. A minimum of $50 is required to participate and Master Card and Visa will be accepted for contributions made at the event.

A special feature of this year's Chicago Workout is the dedication of participants' workouts to loved ones who have battled HIV/AIDS. Tribute stickers and a dedication book will be available at the event.

This year's Workout also will offer a variety of additional features. Participants are asked to bring canned goods and juice, which will be donated to Alexian Brothers Bonaventure House. The Quilt, remembering those with HIV/AIDS, will be on display courtesy of The Names Project. There will also be a silent auction, offering autographed sports memorabilia and tickets to sporting events going to the highest bidder. The top fund-raiser in Chicago will also win a treadmill, donated by Kozy's Cyclery.

"Workout for Hope, a united force against HIV/AIDS and related cancers, offers exercise enthusiasts a way to stay fit, have fun and help others," said Cecilia Cooper, director, City of Hope's Workout for Hope campaign.

In 1995, more than $1.4 million was raised by nearly 20,000 physical fitness enthusiasts across the country. Throughout its brief history, Workout for Hope has raised more than $8.5 million for the advancement of HIV/AIDS and related cancer research and treatment at City of Hope. The results of this research ultimately affect people everywhere as City of Hope shares knowledge and new treatments with the medical community worldwide.

"City of Hope, long recognized for its leading-edge cancer research, is at the forefront of research to combat the complicated AIDS virus," said Beck. "I am honored to be part of this worthwhile event because it offers an opportunity to make a difference in the lives of millions."

To find out more about City of Hope, contact the Chicago office at (800) 779-5893.

Brightening a patient's day

Most hospital patients will agree that nothing cheers them more than a thoughtful visit from family, friends or neighbors. On occasion, however, those visits can turn into less than desirable experiences. The staff of Victory Memorial Hospital has a few common sense guidelines that can help avoid the disappointment of a supportive visit gone awry.

It is important to remember, for instance, that hospitals care for people in various degrees of discomfort and ill health. At Victory the staff strives to create a quiet, calming environment for all patients. When visiting, it is important not to shout greetings or call to other guests down the hall. When children visit, they should be reminded not to run through corridors and up stairwells.

Families and friends are often tempted to bring food or candy to patients they visit, sometimes at the patients' request. Remember that diets are at times restricted due to medications, tests and illness. Before bringing any food, candy or beverage item to a patient, talk to the nurse on duty. Simply call the hospital before leaving home and ask to speak to the patient's nurse. The nurse will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Cellular phones are becoming more and more popular. However, they are not allowed inside hospitals either for making or receiving calls because the circuitry interferes with the running of vital hospital equipment.

For a free flyer, A Guide to Visiting Patients, listing fifteen tips of hospital etiquette, call Victory's Community Relations Dept. at 1-(800) THE CHOICE, Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Members of the Victory Speakers Bureau are available to speak to groups and organizations about visiting friends and family in hospitals. For more information or to schedule a speaker, call 360-4148.

Students become performers through 'Prevention Theatre'

More than 30 students from five Lake County high schools gathered in Grayslake recently to learn about the power of drama as a substance abuse prevention medium. Students spent the day learning about Prevention Theatre, as well as other skills such as group processing, facilitation, listening and communication.

"The goal is to have students go out and present information on subjects important to teens by performing skits for their fellow students," explained Jennifer Johnson, one of the facilitators of the training, and a member of the Prevention Services/InTouch Program.

Students learned a variety of skits on such topics as alcohol, tobacco, drugs, suicide, teen pregnancy, peer and parent relations, dating, sex and AIDS. The goal is to have a number of Lake County high schools involved in the Prevention Theatre program. When an area school needs a presentation or performer, they can contact one of their fellow schools. By exchanging performers, schools can keep the cost of prevention presentations down, while getting high quality information.

Students from Antioch, Johnsburg, Libertyville, Grant and Warren Township High Schools were at the workshop, as well as representatives from the Bringing All Teens Together Program and Omni Youth Services. "There was a lot of energy and excitement from the kids," said Johnson. "But, even more importantly, a lot of good ideas. I am looking forward to sharing those with other schools across Lake County."

Schools and organizations interested in Prevention Theatre should call Johnson of the Prevention Services/In Touch office at 223-6601, ext. 2856. Prevention Services/In Touch is a joint program of the Lake County Health Dept. the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), and the College of Lake County.

Amblyopia Support Group scheduled

A support group for parents of children with amblyopia, or "lazy eye," will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, on 10 W. Room 1041, Lutheran General Hospital, 1775 Dempster, Park Ridge.

Amblyopia is the most common cause of serious eye vision loss in infants and children. Treatment involves patching or otherwise blurring vision in the good eye to force the child to use the amblyopic one. The meeting will provide an opportunity for parents and medical professionals to exchange ideas in an informal setting.

The meeting is free and refreshments will be served. For further information and to make a reservation, contact Darleen Salomon at Pediatric Ophthalmology and Adult Strabismus Center, Ltd., 292-2020.

Advice to deskbound professionals: get moving

Most of the 80 million Americans who work long hours in front of a computer know just what a pain in the neck it can be.

What many of them may not know, back experts say, is that their sedentary jobs are making them sitting ducks for serious and sometimes irreversible spine injury.

"Being glued to an office chair for extended periods can put enormous pressure on delicate spinal structures," says Dr. Leonard J. Cerullo, medical director of the Chicago Institute of Neurosurgery and Neuroresearch (CINN), one of the world's foremost facilities for the treatment of brain and spine disorders.

"Such sustained stress can gradually narrow the passageways for the spinal cord and nerves, often leading to debilitating neck and back pain, herniated discs—even paralysis."

Few professionals and office workers realize they are at risk, however.

In fact, most people still associate back injury with lifting a desk, not sitting at one, even though one of the most common causes of serious back and neck problems is simply doing too much of nothing at all.

CINN urges anyone making a living parked behind a PC to pay attention to the early warning signs of injury so minor pains do not become major problems.

Warning signs to watch for include regular twinges of discomfort in the back and legs, stiff neck and shoulders, tingling or numbness in the arms and hands, and weak grip. "Do not wait until the symptoms become severe", cautions Dr. Cerullo. "Often by that time, the injury has occurred and the damage has been done."

Along with incorporating regular exercise into the work day, computer users should get their work areas into shape as well.

"Taking care of such basics as chair and desk height and proper monitor positioning can keep from twisting, over-reaching or slouching the way to serious back injury," says CINN Physical Therapist Elke Friedman, whose team of physical and occupational therapists have designed ergonomically correct and employee-friendly workspaces for dozens of Chicago-area firms.

Shoulder and chest stretch: Reaching behind the back, clasp fingers together with palms facing in. Slowly raise and straighten arms. Hold this position for several seconds, then slowly release. Repeat three times.

Torso stretch: Raise elbows while keeping hips stationary. Twist upper body at the waist to the right. Hold this position for several seconds, then repeat on left side. Repeat on each side three times.

Chest stretch: Place fingers behind head and squeeze shoulder blades together until tension is felt through the upper back, then slowly release. Repeat three times.

Physician accepts teaching appointment

Gurnee physician Ellen R. Schwartz, MD has been appointed instructor of clinical medicine at Northwestern University Medical School Faculty. Schwartz is a member of Highland Park Hospital's medical staff and practices with Lakeland Primary Care Associates at the group's Gurnee office.

Schwartz received her undergraduate degree from Harvard University, where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and attended medical school at Columbia University and Chicago Medical School. She completed her residency training in Internal Medicine at Evanston Hospital of Northwestern University. Her areas of special skill and interest include the management of chronic conditions such as diabetes and hypertension, health maintenance, and the special issues affecting women and mature adults.

Her office is located at 501 N. Riverside Dr. in Gurnee. For more information, call the Lakeland Primary Care Associates Gurnee office at 662-9709.

Laser eye surgery seminar offered

A free class on the newest advances in refractive eye surgery will be offered at Good Shepherd Hospital on Wednesday, April 24 from 7 to 8 p.m. in the hospital's Lakeview Room. Ophthalmologist Mark Buranosky, MD will present a class on Excimer Laser and Refractive Surgery for any interested in the latest advances in corrective eye surgery.

There is no charge for the class, but space is limited and reservations may be made by calling Health Advisor at 1-(800) 323-8622.

Exercise tips for allergy sufferers

Sniffing and sneezing do not have to be part of a regular exercise routine, but for the 60 million Americans who suffer from sinus and allergy problems, they are. A brisk walk or an enjoyable game of golf or tennis is often cut short by the onset of allergy symptoms. Many times, joggers must stop running simply because their noses started.

Allergies should not force allergy sufferers to give up their outdoor exercise plan. The American Lung Association, dedicated to helping Americans lead healthier, more active lives, and the makers of Tavist are helping millions of allergy sufferers learn how to manage their allergies and enjoy outdoor exercise. Following is a list of measures allergy sufferers can take to make outdoor exercise sneezeless.

If you exercise outdoors

You should: Breathe through the nose—it is a natural air filter.

Stretch indoors to minimize time spent outside, and take an antihistamine 30 minutes before going out.

If you like to get a head start on the day

You should: Avoid exercising too early, as most pollens are emitted by plants between 5 to 10 a.m.

If you play the field

You should: Avoid exercising in fields or meadows where irritating grasses, weeds and trees can be abundant.

If you plan to be outside

You should: Plan activities around allergies. Exercising after a rain can be better for those with pollen allergies, but worse for those with mold allergies. Molds tend to be worse in damp places, such as by the pool and in the forest.

If you work around the house

You should: Wear glasses or sunglasses when mowing the lawn, raking leaves or gardening to help protect the eyes. Rinsing the eyes with artificial tears removes pollens. If necessary, use a particle mask, available at the hardware store, to help filter the air.

If you just do it

You should: Bathe and wash hair when going inside, especially before going to bed. Pollen clings to hair and can rub off on pillows and trigger allergies overnight.

For allergy sufferers who refuse to let their allergy symptoms get the best of them, the American Lung Association and makers of Tavist have developed the Year-Round Allergy Management calendar. The free pocket-size calendar contains more than 50 tips to help allergy sufferers enjoy everything from the great outdoors (travel, sports, gardening) to looking their best and enjoying their home. The calendar is available by calling (900) Tavist-D (828-4783).

'The New Yorkers' is just one of those things

Marriott Lincolnshire Theater's latest musical production, "The New Yorkers" is another one of those musical things, Cole Porter/George Gershwin thirtyish revivals, that depends on the classic music of that era.

Not as well known as most of Porter's other Broadway efforts, ergo maybe not as overdone, "The New Yorkers" features great songs like "Just One of Those Things," "I've Got You Under My Skin," and "Love Fore Sale."

The orchestrations of David Siegel, musical arrangements of Kevin Sites and the orchestra conducted by Michael Duff, along with the outstanding voices of stars David Studwell, Kathryn Jaeck, and Kelli Cramer, are the things that make an audience give standing ovations as they did at the press night performance.

Also notable are area favorites Paula Scrofano, Ray Frewen, and Alene Robertson, who simply can't hide in the ensemble because of her stand-out comic antics and that voice that destroys the crystal collection.

Speaking of belters, Cramer puts across "The Extra Gal," and joins in "Let's Do It," and "Rap-A-Tap On Wood," to steal a scene or two.

The negligible book, as in most of these tap dancing marathons, has a mobster, Studwell, falling in love with an heiress, Jaeck, and they spend the rest of the evening telling us how their romance is doomed from the start and also running away from other gangsters. One in particular, Feet McGeehan, played by Stephen P. Full, tears the house down several times with his one liner "Hello Al." P. S. you have to be there.

Outstanding musical numbers include Jaeck's "I've Got You Under My Skin," the mobsters' "Sing Sing For Sing Sing," and the two company finales, "I Happen To Like New York," and "Take Me Back To Manhattan." —

Nature Center leads way with Earth Day celebration

NEAL TUCKER
Regional Editor

There's some tomfoolery going at the Round Lake Area Park District. Children are learning wonderful things and they don't even know it.

The Park District has a feature at the facilities located at 860 Hart Rd. that most park districts don't have—the Prairie Grass Nature Center and Museum. Sandy Miller, the naturalist at the facility, often hears teachers tell her of children's reactions when they discover they are going to the nature center.

"The kids are thrilled. They start clapping their hands and think the teacher is the best one in the world," Miller said.

This reaction is satisfying to Miller, because it tells her the main mission of the nature center is being realized—to reach and teach the children.

"Our main mission is to educate the children. They don't know about trees around them and animals, or what was there before their house was built. They love it," she said.

The idea for the nature center was actually born with a previous employee of the park district, but it did not take any arm twisting to have Miller sign on to the project.

Prior to coming to the Round Lake Park District roughly 10 years ago, Miller was a naturalist at the Grove in Glenview. The Grove is a nature center and museum that is a flagship Miller is trying to emulate in central Lake County.

The nature center is even more in pace with the times right now, in light of the Earth Day celebration April 20. This is the 27th year for celebrating Earth Day, which is designed to get people to remember their planet and take care of it. The question is, has it worked?

"I think it has," Miller responds. "Ten years ago, you would never have seen these red and green plastic recycling bins along the street. We're touching the children. It is so important to reach the children. They are the conscience of the family."

The Prairie Grass Nature Center and Museum will be leading the way for the celebration with a special day planned. The exhibition that day will feature live animals, nature hikes through the wooded area behind the building, games, crafts, planting of a hummingbird and butterfly garden, organic food displays and taste testing, and an organic gardening display.

Also on hand will be members of the Chicago Herbatological Society with a display. Miller said people will also be making and selling Earth Day T-shirts. The event runs that Saturday from 9:30 a.m. through 12:30 p.m.

Goals for the future are to continue to build the museum aspect of the nature center. This year, she would like to include a pioneer trunk in the exhibits, to show the children what our forefathers took with them when they traveled across the plains to the west.

Regarding the nature center itself, Miller will be concentrating on organic aspects of food and gardening, because we as a nation use too many chemicals. The new study will complement the animals the center already has including snakes, turtles, hedgehogs, salamanders, ferrets, rats, birds and many fish.

Miller hears all the time what a great job she has. She doesn't deny the fact, but she does not flaunt it either because she wants people to know she is actually working.

People with any questions about the Prairie Grass Nature Center and Museum can call 740-9826.

Experiences, as well as biology, make a baby's brain grow

Why quality care is important

A "Newsweek" article of Feb. 19 confirmed what early childhood educators have known for years. "A baby's brain," the article noted, "is a work in progress, trillions of neurons waiting to be wired into the mind."

When the tiny neurons in the brain link up, the baby begins to use the brain as a thinking organ. In these earliest years circuits in the baby's brain start to connect and lay the groundwork for the child to learn language, music, math and even emotions. A responsive caregiver—smiling, talking, singing to the infant—provides the environment that allows the brain to make those connections.

Without proper stimulation in the critical early months and years, an opportunity for brain development is lost. That is why the members of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County are dedicated to ensuring that our youngest citizens receive the quality care and education that will help them reach their full potential.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County is a not-for-profit organization of agencies and individuals working together to advocate for quality child care and education. The Coalition welcomes anyone who lives, works or provides business or civic leadership in Lake County and who is concerned about meeting the needs of children and their families through quality care. The Coalition coordinates, rather than duplicates, the efforts of the many groups in Lake County who are striving to enhance the quality of life for all our children and families.

Week of Young Child begins with family entertainment

Marionette trapeze artist Miss Katrina, an old fashion band and dancers from India will entertain Sunday, April 21, in the showcourt area of Gurnee Mills Mall when the Child Care Coalition of Lake County begins its annual celebration of the Week of the Young Child. The three-hour event begins at 12:30 p.m.

In keeping with the theme of the 1996 Week of the Young Child—"Speak Up/Speak Out...Protecting Our Children"—boys and girls will receive prizes when they turn in toy weapons. Gurnee Mills stores will display "20 Terrific Toys" that encourage constructive play.

During the Gurnee Mills event parents will be able to take steps to speak out against violence. The League of Women Voters of Lake Bluff will hold a voter registration and Parents

Unplugged will offer suggestions about promoting quality television programs. Other highlights include face painting, arts and crafts tables and a display of winning posters in which local children convey their ideas for creating a peaceful Lake County.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County's celebration is part of a national effort to draw attention to young children as the country's most valuable resource. The National Association for the Education of Young Children is the sponsor nationwide.

The Week of the Young Child

The Week of the Young Child is an annual campaign that draws attention to our country's greatest national resource - our children. The Child Care Coalition of Lake County is taking part in the advocacy campaign sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children and supported by its Chicago Metro group. The aim of these early childhood educators is to mobilize the community to positive action on behalf of the rights and needs of young children.

In conjunction with the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, we are proud to publish this very special section to help raise the consciousness of our community and to celebrate the "Week of the Young Child."

Lakeland Newspapers is committed to providing comprehensive information on quality child care to parents, providers and businesses alike.

Three easy ways parents can influence elected officials

Do you ever feel that our elected officials don't understand, that they're out of touch with the real world where we struggle with the problems of work and family life? Well, there are three easy ways to give them the message—pick up a pen, pick up the phone and pick up a ballot.

Very few people bother to call or write their legislators when they have an opinion. There are exceptions, of course, when mail, calls and faxes pour in on controversial issues. On those rare occasions mail is separated into "for" and "against" and weighed, rather than counted.

But most of the time legislators know that each letter or call represents thousands of people who think similar thoughts. So if you write saying, for example, "Please increase funding for Head Start because there wasn't room for my child," you represent thousands of constituents who want that increase.

Legislators are easy to find. Each one has an office in the district that elected him/her, which is listed in the phone book. If you need the Springfield or Washington information, the local office can provide it.

Write or call when you read that an issue you care about is being discussed in the legislature. The newspaper usually gives you the name, the number, and/or the primary sponsor of the bill in which the issue is covered—which isn't always obvious! Include this information in your letter.

State your position clearly and concisely. There is nothing wrong with expressing your emotions, so long as you do so in a polite manner. Calling a Senator disrespectful names is not likely to win her over. And ranting on for pages decreases the chances that your ideas will be understood and appreciated.

You will probably get a written response if you write.

If you call, you'll probably talk to a legislative aide. Such aides are auxiliary eyes and ears for their bosses. Follow the same rules as for writing so the aide can pass a clear message on to your Representative or Senator.

Constituent messages are very helpful to legislators. Right now, the Illinois Legislature is considering giving us a chance to vote on a proposal to change the method of paying for schools. Governor Edgar has recommended increasing the income tax while decreasing the property tax and providing more state funding for education.

Illinois schools get less than a third of their funding from the state, and many are in financial trouble. Our legislators know the schools need more money and that property taxes are too high, but they are afraid that we will only hear "higher taxes" and vote them out of office. Let them know you are smarter than that.

But also be smart enough to send the ultimate political message: VOTE!—by DONNA LOUNDRY, National Council of Jewish Women

Ways to speak up for kids

Encouraging children to turn in their toy weapons at Gurnee Mills on Sunday, April 21, is one way parents can speak out to protect their children. Here are some other suggestions:

- Take part in "Take Your Children to Work Day" on Wednesday, April 24. Taking a tangible reminder of your child to your workplace reminds employers and colleagues that every working parent needs someone to provide quality child care in order to take and keep a job. At the Gurnee Mills event preschool teachers will be available in the arts and crafts area to help children make cardboard replicas of themselves that their parents can wear to work.

- Take part in the Doll Campaign. Send dolls to elected officials to encourage their support of child care. Work with your preschool or day care center to assemble dolls from construction paper, using the cutout on this page (enlarge to 24-inches for maximum impact). Have children decorate each doll with bits of fabric, etc. and send with a name tag (first name only) to each of your state and national representatives along with a note thanking them for supporting measures to secure quality child care.

Stop homes from becoming a battlegrounds

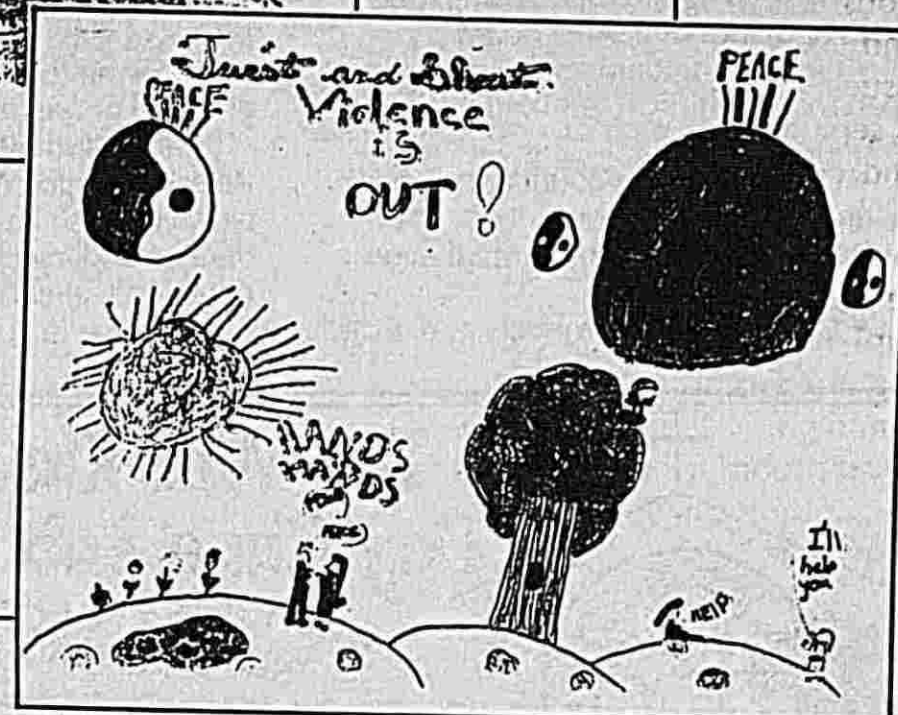

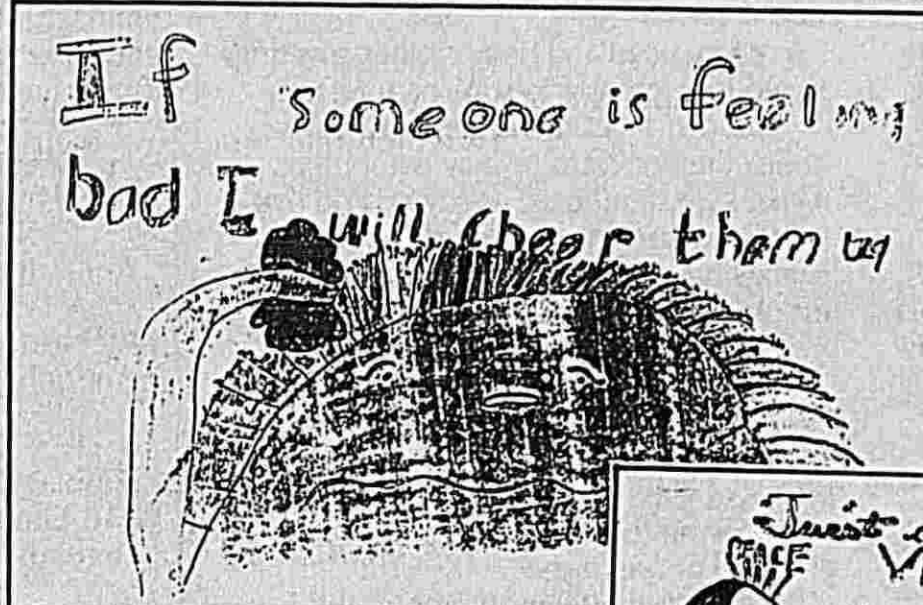

No family is stress free. Stress is a normal part of life and is to be expected when you combine the demands of job, children, spouses and personal needs. While you can't change stressful situations, there is a lot you can do to keep stress down. A few guides: Talk to someone close to you, set priorities, get enough rest, limit alcohol use, think positively, learn to say no gracefully, pick your battles carefully, etc.

Family violence is an epidemic. Nobody deserves to be hit. While the causes of family violence are many and complex, studies show that substance abuse plays a major role, as do emotional and financial stress. There are groups in Lake County working to foster more parenting programs, implement conflict resolution curricula in the classroom, reduce stress in the workplace. Just recently the Lake County Unites for VIP-Violence Intervention and Prevention published a set of recommendations encouraging a county wide approach, Framework For Action Creating a Peaceful Lake County One Person At A Time.

The Business Roundtable of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County and Lake County Unites For Violence Intervention and Prevention (VIP) are sponsoring their second annual poster contest as part of the Week of the Young Child celebration with plans to create a 1997 calendar. Contest winners will be announced at the Week of the Young Child celebration at Gurnee Mills, April 21. More than 300 children took part in a poster contest last year in celebration of the Week of the Young Child. The theme Peace-ing the Puzzle helped in the creation of numerous unique posters and a calendar for 1996.

The mission of VIP is to build a non-violent community in Lake County by promoting self and mutual respect, empowering people with resources, skills and alternative choices to manage feelings and solve problems. Framework For Action: Creating a Peaceful Lake County One Person At A Time was created through the collaborative efforts of 160 policy makers, impactors, clergy, health care criminal justice professionals, educators and youth. The Child Care Coalition is a member of this partnership of community members. For more information call Barbara Haley at (847)360-6733 at the Lake County Health Department.—by BARBARA HALEY, M.A., R.N., N.H.A.

Children conveyed their feelings about peace in the 1995 poster contest. Winning entries illustrated a calendar similar to one that will be created from 1996 poster contest winners.

Lake County Health Dept. offers spring health tips

It's not too early to make appointments for children's physician examinations needed for child care, kindergarten, fifth and ninth grade entrance. Immunizations may also need updating at this physician visit. The Lake County Health Dept. provides medical and immunization clinics throughout Lake County.

Now that spring has officially arrived and we all want to be outdoors more, this is a great time to review safety rules with children.

- Wear helmets and other protective gear when riding a bicycle, using roller skates or blades or a skate board
- Never hang onto a moving vehicle when roller skating, roller blading or skate boarding
- Designate areas/boundaries where children may ride or skate
- Protect children from harmful exposure to the sun
- Use sun screen products as directed

- Limit sun time to before 10 a.m. and after 2 p.m.
- Use head and body clothes/coverings to reduce exposure to sun's harmful rays

Springtime is also a good time to check the backyard or play equipment. Make sure sandboxes are clean and that protective surfaces around slides and swings have enough sand or mulch. Look for obvious signs of damage or decay.

- Fallen tree limbs or branches
- Exposed rock, dangerous holes
- Insect nests (ants, spiders, hornets)
- Human pollution, bottles, cans, pieces of glass
- Swing ropes that are not properly attached or are frayed

Handwashing knows no season! Reteach, reinforce, remind children (of all ages!) to wash hands after playing outdoors, handling pets, before eating or handling food, after using the toilet, anytime hands come in contact with body fluids (blood, urine, drool, stool, nose drainage, etc.) Warm running water, soap and lather, scrubbing all hand surfaces (under fingernails too), rinsing and drying well are all necessary components of effective handwashing.—by CHARLENE HENDRICKSON, R.N., C., N.H.A., Lake County Health Dept.

'Parents Unplugged' urges responsible TV programming

In response to what they feel is inappropriate programming either targeted at children or aired when children are likely to be in the viewing audience, a Lake County based organization "Parents Unplugged" serves as a nationwide resource to concerned parents. They host an annual boycott during which they encourage parents to unplug their televisions and boycott products of 10 major corporations during the month of September.

"We do not advocate censorship," says co-founder, Jordan Madorsky, "we are only saying 'Caution: children are present.' What children often see on daytime and early prime time television is often sexually explicit and violent beyond their comprehension." He explains, "I am tired of the overly-simplistic, patronizing entertainment executives who often sug-gratuitous sexual comments and double entendres. Even when the show itself is perfectly wholesome, we are often assaulted without warning by a 15-second promotional spot featuring the most sexually provocative or violent scenes from shows that caring parents won't let their kids watch. Why should I have to put my TV in the trunk of the car while I run to the grocery store, just to prevent my young teenager from tuning in to a sleazy talk show in my brief absence?"

Adds his partner, co-founder Susan Kaplan, "In every other area we constantly make accommodations for the immaturity and sensibilities of children. We drive slower when school children are present, we refrain from telling an adult joke until children are out of earshot, we close our bedroom doors. We only want children to be allowed to grow and mature at their own pace, not being confronted daily with adult fare. No child should have access to this stuff."

They encourage all similarly concerned parents to contact them at (847)872-1600 for further information. They will also be a part of the Week of the Young Child gathering held on Sunday, April 21 at Gurnee Mills from 12:30 to 3 p.m. Be sure to stop by their booth where the co-founders will be on hand to talk with you and distribute information.—by SUSAN KAPLAN, M.Ed., Parents Unplugged gest, 'Don't use TV as a babysitter,' Watch TV with your child,' and, 'Just turn it off.' ### "TOMMY'S HAVING DIFFICULTY IN SCHOOL LATELY... ARE THERE PROBLEMS AT HOME?"

When Mom and Dad have problems, their children also feel stress. Often times a child's grades will fall and he or she becomes distracted and withdrawn.

The Bradley Counseling Center can help work out problems; helping parents to overcome their conflicts and help children realize that it's not their fault that Mommy and Daddy are fighting.

Bradley Counseling Center can help with a number of emotional problems including anxiety, stress, anger management, marital and family conflict, problems in school, loneliness, depression, suicidal feelings, eating disorders and substance abuse. Bradley also offers psychological testing and counseling for children under 5.

Child Care Coalition of Lake County sends message around world

The huge success of the 1995 Week of the Young Child Campaign brought an overwhelming wave of media attention and accolades to our community.

The "PEACing the Puzzle" theme which emphasized how a community, parents and teachers could come together in working toward an end to rampant violence was carried in newspapers across the country. As a result of an Associated Press article, a reporter from the Sunday London Times conducted an interview, and an impressive article featured our work here in the United States.

The Child Care Coalition is proud to have a group of members who both advocate and produce work that is to be replicated. This past fall Dolores Hermann, director of Dea. Even Early Learning Center and I spoke to a group of educators about our efforts to teach peace at the annual National Assn. for the Education of Young Children Conference.

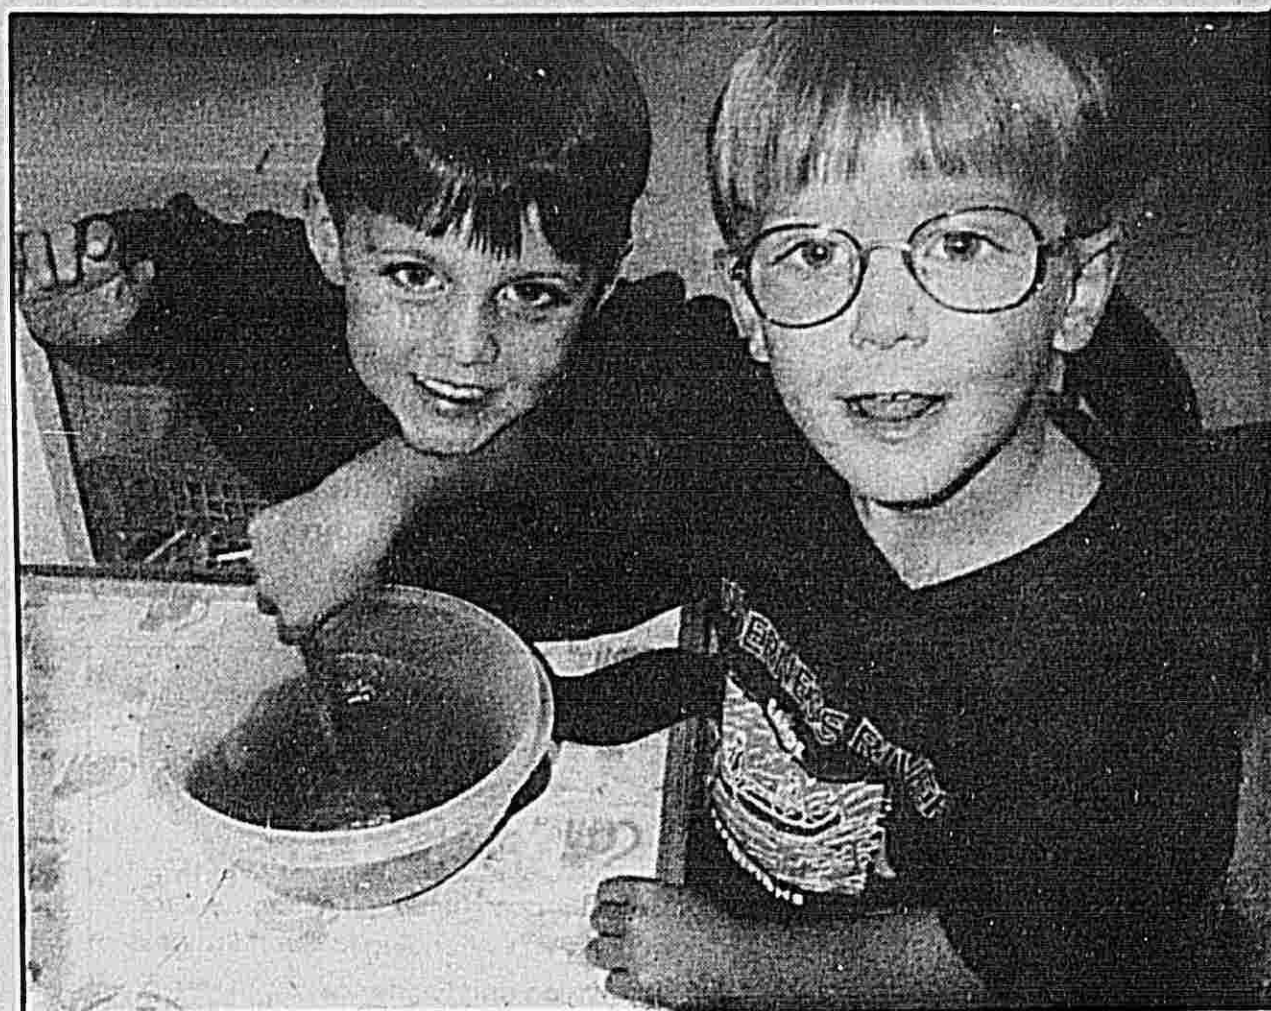

This year, we continue in our campaign and the 1996 Week of the Young Child theme is "Speak Up/Speak Out...Protecting Our Children."

Once again, Lake County has an opportunity to show the rest of the country that we advocate and practice actions which keep children safe and secure.

We invite the parents, grandparents and children in our community to attend the 1996 Week of the

Young Child event and have a happy and meaningful afternoon.—by CHARLENE ACKERMAN, M.Ed., Kennedy Child Care Center

DEAR MARILYN

Dear Marilyn:

My son is about to have a very "unhappy" birthday. He has told all his friends, cousins, neighbors and grandparents that all he wants for his birthday is a toy gun. My husband and I are equally as determined that he doesn't get one. Any advice would be appreciated.

What a dilemma. But also a wonderful opportunity to let your son know that violence is not OK. This is a difficult message, given the violent world we live in.

It will become your responsibility to broaden his interests by offering him a rich assortment of other toys and props that will help him grow and develop.

What gun play does is teach children all the wrong things. He is still working through the differences between fact and fiction. He will need your support and understanding, as well as opportunities to feel a sense of power. There really are other exciting and interesting toys to play with. Show him, tell him, lead him.

Editor's note: Marilyn Straus, an Early Childhood Specialist, continues her column "Dear Marilyn" a service of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County. For questions or concerns send them to Dear Marilyn, c/o Child Care Coalition of Lake County, P.O. Box 12523, Highland Park, IL 60035

Tewes House helps teen parents leave welfare

When kids have kids the consequences are enormous. Many young people simply are not equipped to handle the logistics or the emotional stress related to raising children. The struggle to finish school, take care of their babies and support their families can become an elusive dream.

The Lake County Family YMCA responded to a call from the Teen Parent Initiative at a Child Care Coalition of Lake County meeting. At the meeting Goodwill Industries of Lake County's Teen Parent Initiative case manager explained the desperate need for Infant/Toddler child care for Public Aid Teen Parents. A young parent cannot finish her education, receive vocational training or work to become self-sufficient if there is no one to care for her child.

September, 1995, The Lake County Family YMCA opened Tewes House, a new Infant/Toddler Child Care Center solely for teenage mothers. Through our collaborations with Goodwill Industries, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Waukegan Township and the College of Lake County, we have been able to unite our services to assist young parents. While Congress debates about how to reduce welfare rolls, Lake County Family YMCA is helping teen parents to take charge, get off welfare and become self-sufficient.

Tewes House provides teen parents with 22 full-time child care slots for children ages 6 weeks to 24 months. The YMCA provides transportation between home, school and child care center. A teen parent may earn "Fun Bucks" for attending school. "Fun Bucks" are used at the Fun Bucks Store to purchase items for the baby or mom. Donations are accepted for the Fun Bucks store. Call Parent Teen Initiative at (847)360-0853.

For more information on the Lake County Family YMCA's Tewes House, call Kay Petersen, director, at (847)336-8672.—by GUSSIE MONKS, Lake County YMCA

Be a children's champion

Today more than ever young children need you to be their champion—someone committed to making the world a more caring place that offers every child and family the opportunity to thrive.

I promise to do all that I can—at work, at home, and as a concerned citizen—to make sure that all children and families have the opportunity to thrive. I will

1. Speak out on behalf of children at every opportunity.
2. Do something to improve the life of one child beyond my family.
3. Hold public officials accountable for making children's well-being and learning a national commitment in actions as well as words.
4. Encourage the organizations to which I belong to make a commitment to children and families.
5. Urge others to become a Children's Champion.

Dave Herzog's Marionettes

Master puppeteers David Herzog and Susan VandeWeghe perform in the cabaret style with short strung marionettes and puppeteers in full view of the audience. The current production, "In Concert," features the antics of Ted and June, the musical lightning bugs; Frankie Monster and his creator, the Mad Scientist Boris von Puppenspiel; Barbara Strieswan; and the aerial artistry of Miss Katrina, the beautiful lady on the flying trapeze. The show also features, clowns, jugglers and acrobats.

Pranita Jain and the Kalapriya Performers

Pranita Jain and her company perform "Bharat Natyam," a highly complicated dance form of India considered one of the most graceful kinds of dancing in the world. The company's performances are marked by brightly colored costumes, rhythmic footwork and graceful hand and body movements. Some dances of Kalapriya tell stories that describe east Indian mythological gods and goddesses. Pranita Jain has performed at the Art Institute of Chicago, the Harold Washington Library, Indiana University, the University of Illinois at Champaign and the Museum of Science and Industry.

Jim Campbell and the Brass Ball Corner Band

This group of musicians, including an accordionist and guitar players, got together to perform for their own enjoyment and now share their music with audiences of all ages.

Educators choose 20 terrific children's toys

When choosing toys for children there are several criteria to keep in mind. Toys should be appealing and interesting to the child, they should be appropriate for the child's physical, mental and social developmental stage and they should be well constructed, durable and safe. Above all appropriate toys should support the growth and development of the child through play.

Whether at home or in child care or at school children learn about the world around them and how to problem solve through play activities. The appropriate toys can stimulate a child in all types of play which include social and fantasy play; exploration and mastery play; music, art and movement activities, and gross motor play.

Children from early infancy on learn through play. Choosing the appropriate toys for the appropriate age assists each child in his/her development.

The following is a list of toys chosen from Kay-Bee Toys and Toyworks at Gurnee Mills. It should be noted that this is not an inclusive list. There are many more toys that are also appropriate for your child. The list is meant as a starting point in thinking through the process.

A large supply of children's books, music of all types and a variety of art supplies should always be available for each child. Art supplies should include crayons, markers, scissors, glue and different types of papers so that the child is able to create her/his interpretation, not a copy of someone else's.

In addition to the books, music and art supplies, here is a list of 20 terrific toys.

Infant

Toys should stimulate the senses, promote developing awareness, allow for exploration and manipulation, reward early attempts at mastery and be safe.

Dolls—should be soft and washable with molded hair and non-removable eyes

Musical busy box—teaches manipulation and mastery

Toddlers

Toys should expand fine and gross motor capacities, promote mastery of objects, encourage pretend play, increase interest in social play and develop early problem solving skills.

Play phones—teach role play, social play

Farm animal sound set—for mastery of objects, pretend play, social play.

Two-year-olds

Toys should fine tune fine motor skills, provide active physical play, promote independence, expand role-playing and social play, provide for artistic expression and develop problem solving skills.

Play about house—promotes role playing, social skills,

Shape sorters—for fine motor skills, problem solving

Play food, dishes, grocery cart—promote independence, pretend play, social interaction

Preschool & kindergarten

Toys should support a wide range of interests, growing peer interaction, artistic expression, effective learning and social interaction strategies, development of perceptual and representational skills and ways for children to understand and be effective in the world.

Mega blocks/Legos

Puzzles

School age

Toys should provide for a range of abilities and interests, encourage respect for individual differences, support cooperative learning, nurture a growing sense of competency and expand curiosity, experimentation and problem solving skills.

Planting trees, shrubs now can create beautiful memories

This tree or shrub can be used in many applications for the home, schools, parks and even along public highways. It has many shapes such as rounded, horizontal, pendulous, vase-shaped and fastigiate. They are valued for their flowers, foliage and fruit display. It's the crabapple and it shows off even in the cold winter months with its unique branching. There are literally hundreds of types of crabapples grown in nurseries across North America, however, today's or yesterday's plants are now rated according to disease susceptibility.

Men such as Dr. Lester Nichols, Dr. Ed Hasselkus, Dr. Elton Smith, Dr. Malcom Shurtliff have rated crabapples for disease susceptibility by studying and collecting many years of data. We thank these men greatly for their efforts. We can now grow varieties that are less susceptible to disease. The growers have benefited greatly from these studies and have been able to pass this on to the general public.

This tree or shrub form plant is beautiful in full flower. Can be used as a single specimen plant or in a group. Use different species and cultivars in a group and get longer blooming times. Different textures and shapes can also be achieved.

Tired of the usual cotoneaster, honeysuckle or forsythia hedge to block an unsightly view? Try mixing some crabapples with some serviceberries and enjoy the view, year round.

Many people love the small fruits borne in the fall showing berries with colors of red, orange, yellow and even green. Some crab trees have

Malus "Adams"

A carmine buds opens to form a pink flower each spring. The persistent red berry really draws me to this plant every winter. Very resistant to disease. A rounded, dense growth habit achieving heights of 20 to 24-feet.

Malus "Donald Wyman"

A red to pink bud opens to form a single white flower. The fruit is a glossy bright red, abundant and another persistent berry in winter. Large spreading shape 20 to 25-feet wide. Shows a nice large lustrous green leaf every summer.

Malus "Prairiefire"

The red buds open to show a dark pinkish red flower. As the leaves emerge they show a maroon color and mature to dark green. The fruit is dark red to purple, small and persistent. A slow grower with a rounded growth habit, 20-feet high and wide. Very resistant to diseases. Some unusual shaped crabs that are nice are the Malus "Tina." The pink to red bud emerges to form a white flower with yellow centers, small red berry. A low spreader and is great in entry-way, courtyard and viewing gardens off of decks or patios. Can grow to 5-feet in height, highly resistant. Have even seen this plant grafted on a single stem 24 to 36-inches high. Makes a great accent piece for small gardens.

Malus "Molton Lava"

A nice wide-spreading weeper. It's deep red buds emerge to form a single white flower. The berries are a red-orange color and remain on the plant into December. Be sure to use a flowering crab in your gardens. As it grows it will show off its form, flowers, foliage and fruit year after year. Some years the plant will be extremely floriferous in the spring and reward you with thousands of berries to view. The character of the plant grows as it matures. Fond memories of childhood emerge in oneself when in a grove of them. Another winner in one's garden.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect and owner of Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth.

Peat moss secret is out: Great gardens begin at root level

The secret to beautiful gardens is at root level—in the soil. So don't covet your neighbor's fabulous flowers, stunning shrubs, venerable vegetables and luscious lawns; build the foundation needed for a yard that will rival Eden.

Plant roots require soil that is loamy, neutral, with the capacity for good drainage and full of organic material.

Do a quick quality check to determine the condition of your soil. Scoop up a handful of dirt and study its texture. If it's thick and lumpy and clings together in a ball, it's heavy clay. Plant roots have a hard time penetrating clay, and they will starve due to lack of air and water.

Luckily, one soil amendment will take over where Mother Nature, or the developers, left off. Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss improves the texture and performance of all soils, both good and bad. It will aerate clay, bind sand, dramatically reduce the leaching of nutrients and hold up to 20 times its weight in water.

A general rule of thumb is to work a two-inch layer into the top six inches of soil. For year-round soil conditioning, add Canadian Peat Moss to the garden in both the spring, before planting, and in the fall, after harvesting.

The pH level of your garden should also be analyzed so necessary adjustments can be made. The pH, or level of alkalinity or acidity, is measured on a scale of 1 to 14. Seven is neutral; numbers above indicate alkaline soil and numbers below show acidic conditions. Soil amendments and fertilizers may affect the acidity or alkalinity of your planting bed. Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss is again beneficial because it has a predictable pH level of 3.4 to 4.8.

A soil test will help determine accurately the pH of your soil, but here are regional clues that can also be of help. Acid soils occur throughout the Northeast and in parts of the country that have high humidity and other conditions that leach out calcium and magnesium.

Ground limestone is the antidote. Alkaline soils are more common in the Southwest where rainfall doesn't rob the soil of alkalizing chemicals. Spread sulfur to increase acidity. Remember lawns, vegetables and most flowers prefer a neutral to slightly acid soil, such as pH 6.0 to 7.0.

Plants require three major nutrients: nitrogen (N), which encourages growth of plant tissues; phosphorus (P), which stimulates cell development, fruiting and disease resistance, and potassium or potash (K), which helps plants form starches and sugars as well as resist disease and drought. Fertilizers are labeled with three-number formulas, such as 5-10-10 or 10-10-10, referring to the percentage of N-P-K within the mix.

An organic product harvested from bogs 7,000 to 12,000 years old, sphagnum peat moss is found in cold, wet climates north of the 45th parallel. Canada, the Russian Federation and Germany are major producers of sphagnum peat moss. Sphagnum moss was one of the first plants to grow on land as the glaciers receded at the end of the Ice Age.

Over the centuries, the perennial sphagnum plants have grown and formed layers. As the layers decompose, the become sphagnum peat moss, an enduring fibrous substance with large cavities that absorb air and water, the way a sponge does.

Harvesting Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss for horticultural use is an ingenious energy-efficient process. First, the top 1/2 inch of the peat bog is raked and left to dry in the sun. Once dry, it is picked up by large vacuum-like machines. Then, it is screened to remove roots and other debris and pressed in bales.

There are other types of peat moss, such as those formed from the remains of sedge and reed grasses, which are found in more temperate climates. These "peats" are more highly decomposed than Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss and, therefore, do not last as long. Because Canadian Peat has a stronger structure than other peat products, it has a greater capacity to provide plants with the proper balance of air and water.

There is an alternative to pure Canadian Peat: compost-enriched Canadian Peat Moss. Vegetable peelings, lawn and garden debris and coffee grounds needn't waste away in the city dump! Mixed in a 50-50 ratio with Canadian Peat Moss, compost makes an excellent nutrient that also improves the texture of the soil.

Peat will deodorized the compost and soak up excess moisture which often collects in composting receptacles. Just add a shovelful or two of garden soil or stream-sterilized manure as well as two cups of limestone and blend the ingredients.

At a times of increasing concern about environmental issues, it is comforting to know that this soil conditioner is a completely natural resource. A bale of Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss is free of insect life, weed seeds, and harmful salts and chemicals.

Gardeners can create a mood with flower colors

Everyone likes a bright, colorful garden. But did you know that you can create a mood or even create an illusion of change in the garden by using certain colors?

Red and yellow are colors that command attention. Our eyes are drawn to reds and yellows and so are excellent choices to plant in key areas that you want people to see. On the other hand, if you have something in your garden that you don't want someone to look at, plant bright yellow flowers opposite the area to draw attention away from there.

If there are steps or walkways in your garden, borders of yellow flowers will catch people's eyes and alert them in an attractive way. Color experts even say that houses will sell faster if it has yellow trim or borders of yellow flowers out front. This is not a guarantee, but may be worth a try if you are in the house selling market.

Red can have several effects. Bright red flowers planted at the end of a long, narrow property will visually "pull" the end in closer and it won't seem so long. Red also physically arouses. Studies have shown that food tastes better around red, so red flowers around outdoor eating areas will help stimulate conversation and make the food taste better too.

Masses of red or yellow are guaranteed attention getters that won't go unnoticed. In a full sun garden consider red blooms of petunia, celosia, salvia or wax begonia. Yellow is most often found in marigolds, but a great deal of interest is being paid to dwarf sunflowers such as "Sunspot," "Sunrich Orange" and "Sunbeam."

If red and yellow help to excite and draw attention, blue is the color we perceive as being cool and calm. By planting lots of blue flowers you can create a feeling of coolness even in a full-sun garden. Lighter blues are better than dark blues. Those 95 degree days will just feel cooler in a garden with blue flowers.

Blue tones can help widen or lengthen the look of a garden because blue recedes or falls back. Lots of blue flowers planted along the sides of a long, narrow garden will make it seem wider because blue "falls back" visually.

Because blue is the first color to fade from sight as night falls, you may want to incorporate light colors into a blue border if there are areas you like to look at in the evening. Blue tones are found in petunias, blue salvia, lisianthus, ageratum and lobelia.

If you are a very neat, tidy, precise person, then white is the color for you. Crisp flower beds of white will give your garden a well-planned look. Masses of white can be hard on the eyes though, so you may want to incorporate other colors as well. White is also the last color to fade as night falls. If evening is the only time you have to enjoy your garden because of work schedules, white flowers are a good choice because they can be seen and enjoyed as darkness falls. Annuals that deliver good white blooms include petunia, vinca, nicotiana, alyssum and impatiens.

Green is a good compliment to white because it actually helps your eyes recover from the strain of bright white.

What if your taste runs toward lots of different colors? That's great! Just don't over do it. Mixed colors add a festive touch. But too much mixing can be more disorganized than festive. For a limited but festive look, a marigold mixture can display the four colors of yellow, orange, gold and maroon. Also, using three or four colors over and over can help tie everything together.

For fond memories of gardens past — plant a pansy.

Pansies are a symbol for memories and souvenirs of time spent joyfully. The smiling face of a pansy seems to say, "Happy thoughts of you." For all the wonderful gardens and the people who have helped you grow along the way, stop in to Leider's Garden Greenery and select a pansy or two. We have rich, regal purples, cheerful yellows, and lovely whites ready to grace a spot in your landscape. Remember some happy thoughts of yesteryear, and plant some pansies.

Wauconda author Ritchie tells tale of South American Indian tribe in new book

SPENCER SCHEIN
Staff Reporter

What would it be like to visit another world where the natives believe in the word of spirits, refuse to talk about the dead and would kill another to avenge a death?

Mark Andrew Ritchie of Wauconda has done this, and has written a book about the life and times of the Yanomamö, an Indian tribe that lives in a region in South American in Venezuela and Brazil.

Ritchie visited the Yanomamö almost religiously over a 14-year period, first going with a friend in 1983, and then returning on his own or with his family every year or a couple in-between.

"Spirit of the Rainforest" tells the history of the Yanomamö from the 1950s through the present, and is told through the eyes of Jungleman, a shaman Ritchie met in 1990.

All of the stories and tales in the book are true, even though some readers may find them too unbelievable.

Before hitting the road on a book tour and a stop at CNN Atlanta, Ritchie will hold a premier book release in the library of Wauconda High School, 555 N. Main St., at 7 p.m. April 22. Ritchie will be accompanied by Gary Dawson, an American raised in the jungle who acted as a liaison and translator for Ritchie, and Chief Shoefoot, one of the central characters in the book.

Wauconda High School is located about one mile north of Route 176.

Madison Avenue features great view, great food

Waukegan's Madison Avenue is well-known for its fine dining and elegant setting which includes a wonderful view of Lake Michigan from the floor to ceiling windows in the main dining room. Madison Avenue sits on a bluff overlooking Waukegan Harbor.

The restaurant features two candlelit dining rooms with three levels of dining and seating for up to 110 as well as a newly redecorated meeting and banquet facility with seating for up to 150.

Madison Avenue is family-owned and operated by Marilyn Eccles and her sons, Kevin and Kit. The restaurant features American cuisine with dishes such as chicken, ribs, a variety of steaks, fresh fish, and one of the most selected entrees, prime rib. On Tuesday night, prime rib is offered for only $8.95, regularly $13.95, with your choice of soup or salad. With entrees chosen from the menu, you get soup or juice, salad, a hot loaf of bread, and your choice of potato.

You can start your meal with a number of tasty appetizers, including escargot (which gets rave reviews), BBQ ribs, crab caps (mushroom caps stuffed with crab), fresh veggie or fruit platters, shrimp cocktail, raw oysters, and Madison Avenue's house recipe, baked Oysters Madison. If you have room, try the excellent carrot cake or cheesecake for dessert.

At Madison Avenue you'll find a variety of featured items on the menu every day. The Greg Rockingham Trio is appearing in the lounge on Tuesday and Friday, with J. D. Smith playing on Saturday nights.

Experience Madison Avenue for yourself! It's located in Waukegan at 34 N. Sheridan Rd., (847)662-6090, open Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. for lunch, Monday through Thursday from 4 to 10 p.m. for dinner, Friday and Saturday from 4 to 11 p.m. for dinner, and Sunday from 4 to 10 p.m.

For customer convenience, the City Parking Garage, where public parking is permitted, is just adjacent to the south side of the restaurant. Parking is 50 cents an hour on weekdays. Parking in the garage is free after 6 p.m. and on weekends.

Republican campaign '96—a little 'oui, oui'

I've got a new campaign strategy for the Republicans, guaranteed to get them some older voters, instead of just old candidates like Dole.

Now that it looks like Dole's going to clinch the nomination after all, and considering he has the personal appeal of dried beef jerky, the Republicans are going to need a new, exciting idea to stir up the voters. Something with more pizzazz than the flat tax theory, which seems to have fallen...flat.

My suggestion is that they ought to look overseas and pay attention to what those wild and crazy French folks are up to when they're not kissing. To be more specific, what the French are doing over there is gambling.

Not that we here in the United States are exactly strangers to gambling. In fact, with off-track betting, Indian Reservation casinos, riverboat gambling and a lottery for every day of the week, I figure it's only a matter of time before we can place bets at the doctor's office while we wait ("$50 says that man over there has gout!") "You're on!"

But, you know the French—they like to stay one step ahead of the crowd. So, instead of just betting on the horses or a royal flush, they are placing bets on...death! Yes, you heard me right—death.

It's quite simple, really. A prospective buyer makes a down payment on a real estate property while the owner is alive. He pays periodic installment payments until the owner dies, at which time the property changes hands. The amounts are proportional to the owner's age—in other words, the less time that the seller is expected to live, the larger your payments.

Which means, it is basically a gamble with death—if the owner dies before he is statistically expected to, the buyer ends up paying far less than market value for the property. If the owner is someone like George Burns and lives to be 100, the buyer has gambled and lost—he'll still receive the property, but only after paying a great deal more than what it was worth.

Intriguing, isn't it? And it's definitely a seller's market—you put your house up for sale, collect the down payment and regular installments, and gain extra income (not to mention a little incentive to keep on living and beat the odds). And once you die, you won't care whether or not the buyer got your property for a time the property changes hands. The amounts are proportional to the owner's age—in other words, the less time that the seller is expected to live, the larger your payments.

And the Republicans could tout this as a way for seniors to make up the difference in Social Security and Medicare cuts. Reinforce their smaller government theory. More power to the elderly. That sort of thing.

Senator Dole can even use this gambling idea as his theme, saying that he's "making his bid on the White House."

Anyway, it's just an idea. I thought it might make the presidential race a little more interesting. Personally, I think Dole should pick some other property to bid on. I doubt that Clinton is going to bite the dust just yet.

song—you lived quite nicely in the meantime off those payments. You can't lose. Also, this would be a perfect way to get back at your adult children, most of whom may have been jockeying for inheritance position ever since you hit retirement age. Oh, sure, you could leave the house to them, but why? Did anyone leave you a house? No! Let the little vultures get their own!

Just picture it—seniors becoming their own "death" bookies. No more dragging your walker to the local 7-11 for those lottery tickets. No more buying 50 copies of Reader's Digest just to win the sweepstakes.

Quilt exhibit showcases journey through life

As a child growing up in Grayslake in the 1800s, Jennifer Forvor Neville learned to quilt for purely practical reasons. It wasn't until her own children were grown that Neville transcended the traditional meaning of quilting, and began weaving artistic impressions of her life and her love of gardening into her quilts. The Neville Family Quilt Collection, preserved by the family for half a century, will be on display at the Lake County Forest Preserves' Lake County Museum through Jan. 10, 1997.

The exhibit illustrates the art of one Lake County woman's evolution from family-taught traditional designs to a flowering of individual expression. Ranging in age from the 1880s to the 1940s, the quilts are outstanding examples of craftsmanship featuring superior stitching, precise applique and piecing as well as exquisite colors.

See The Neville Family Quilt Collection during the museum's regular hours, 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 1 to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

General admission to the museum is $2 for adults, $1 for youth ages 4 through 17. Children ages 3 and under enter free. Or, come to the museum on Free Admission Mondays and browse through the galleries for free.

Country bands throw their hats in for 'Applause for Paws' benefit April 20

Ramblin' Fever and two other country and western bands have joined in on the "Applause for Paws" benefit to be held this Saturday, April 20, at The Paradise Beach Club in Ingleside. There will be four different shows going on at the same time! On the Main Stage, Bush Pilot, Dashboard Dogs, Empty Pockets, Minefield Dancer, Nick Laramie and the Groove, and Redeye Express will be ending the night with an open jam session.

In the Tropical Country Saloon, Ramblin' Fever and the other two country and western bands will take their turns at the stage while all of the Main Stage acts perform acoustic in the VIP Room. If that's not enough, there will also be a DJ and large dance floor in the Main Bar Room. The first bands will really begin at 7:30 p.m.! This show is sure to sell out, so get there early to be sure you don't miss out on this show.

The benefit is for JES Exotic Sanctuary, a no-kill animal shelter for lions, tigers, bears and other animals, all who had either been abused, starved or in danger of death. You can contact JES Exotic Sanctuary at (414) 736-9386.

Name the City Home to The Tallest Observation Tower in The U.S.

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

No, it's not Seattle. I'll give you a hint. This city lays claim to both the world's largest electric sign and free-standing billboard.

If you don't have it yet, this should give it away. The world's largest slot-machine jackpot was won here recently.

That's right. Las Vegas has another "biggest in the world" claim. After many delays, the long-awaited Stratosphere Tower is due to open the end of this month. And in true Las Vegas style, it boasts much more than just being the tallest free-standing observation tower in the U.S.

Oh sure, you'll find the Vegas usual. Three "themed" casinos, two lounges and almost 3,000 of the newest slots and video machines in the world. Included in its seven restaurants is its claim to "the best buffet in Las Vegas."

Since there is certainly no shortage of buffets in Las Vegas, I doubt I'll try theirs. However the revolving fine dining restaurant at the very top of the Stratosphere, appropriately called the "Top of The World" will probably be a dinner stop the next time I'm in Vegas.

Not let's get to the fun stuff. The Stratosphere houses not only the world's highest roller coaster, but another thrill ride called "The Space Shot". This air-powered ride thrusts 16 passengers at a time up a mast which extends 192 ft. above the top of the already 100 story high Stratosphere Tower. The lucky riders will "enjoy" up to 4.5 G-forces going up and negative 1G-Force on the way down.

For a little less excitement, you can ride the double-decker express elevators to both indoor & outdoor observation decks for an incredible view of the city.

At the base of the tower on the site of the defunct Vegas World Hotel is the Stratosphere Hotel. Your travel agent can book an air/hotel package at the Stratosphere Hotel through Funjet Vacations. The only draw-back to staying at this hotel may be its location. It's pretty far north on the strip, while most of the newer resorts are at the south end.

By the way, the largest free-standing billboard belongs to the Treasure Island Resort, the largest electric sign is the four-block-long canopy which now covers Fremont Street in downtown Las Vegas and largest slot machine jackpot of $10.9 million dollars was won Oct. 18 of last year at the Gold Coast Hotel and Casino.

Movie Pick

'Primal' slides despite high 'Gere'

If you are a Richard Gere fan as we are, you will enjoy "Primal Fear" simply because he's never looked better and his acting prowess is cutting edge.

If the only Edward Norton you knew before viewing the movie is the honeymooners' upstairs neighbor, you'll leave the theater remembering a younger Norton who turns out to be one of the best young actors to appear on the Hollywood scene in a while.

"Primal Fear," a timely O. J. Simpson trial look alike, starts out like gangbusters, but like the month of March, becomes lamb-like until the ending triple twist.

The first part of the movie sinks deep in excesses with Gere playing a sharply dressed, slippery legal eagle who works hard at public soaring.

Norton is the baby-faced stuttering client Gere sees sending him over the top after he gets him acquitted of the murder of the archbishop of Chicago, no less.

The many Chicago scenes will prove interesting to our Lake County readers. Our slick attorney and the audience seem to think the accused is innocent, or is he? Gere slides from jail cell to courtroom looking like an Armani model, flashing a winning smile from time to time when it matters, and delivering an interestingly smooth performance.

The unknown Norton, who reportedly won the role over hundreds of young actors, turns out to be that unusual actor who definitely establishes himself with one performance, of course the role of Aaron is probably one of the meatiest roles of the year.

The picture's Marcia Clark is Laura Linney, only this time she turns out to be blond and one of Gere's exs, which is a bit much. John Mahoney as a typical Chicago politico, Molly Arington, playing a psychiatrist, and the trial's judge, played brilliantly by Alfre Woodard, round out a fine cast.

This movie at first glance seems to have it all, pretty people, suspense, plot twist upon plot twist, good acting, etc., but it just misses being a top drawer legal beacon by a few hairs.

tor, Gregory Hoblit made his mark in top cop-court TV dramas, keeps "Fear" on the small screen level.

This is a good movie, worthy of a 3.5 out of five star rating, but the trailers had us expecting so much more. "Fear" is rated R for violence and strong language.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not everything will be to your satisfaction on the workfront this week. However, since nothing major goes wrong, you can breathe a little easier. Later on, you're delighted by unexpected news which arrives over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Unexpected business developments which occur now shouldn't throw you since they're ultimately in your favor. However, you need to be careful when pulling out those credit cards. The weekend finds you in a mood to be by yourself.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A relative could be reluctant to go along with something you propose for the family early in the week. Some receive an unexpected favor or gift midweek. However, this weekend, extra duties arise in connection with the home.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Some domestic concerns require your immediate attention in the beginning of the week before you can tackle work tasks. In general, it's not a good week for home entertaining. Couples, though enjoy a fun getaway.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Friendship and money don't mix well at all this week. You could have second thoughts about a business proposition and need to explore them further. Your instincts give you the key to all the complexities.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) The week begins on a somewhat sluggish note as you're not feeling your best. By midweek, some could find themselves fighting off a 24-hour bug. Once back at work, you face some minor problems with a co-worker.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Couples aren't in agreement about a potential purchase. It seems you'll have to compromise about a business concern midweek. However, a surprising opportunity arrives at your doorstep over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) While out shopping early in the week, be careful that you don't pay too much for that desired item. Some are having second thoughts about a previous commitment. This should teach you to say no in the first place when you can't fulfill something.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're not excited about what's on your plate this week and you could drag your heels as a result. However, once you get the grunt work out of the way, you'll be able to really tackle the more important, fulfilling tasks.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're cautious this week with spending, especially since you're trying to get rid of some of that credit card debt. In fact, you decide against making an expensive purchase desired by your mate.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) For a while this week, you feel that you're not getting your point across and you're frustrated as a result. A romantic concern is particularly nettling to singles. This weekend, an impromptu outing fills the bill.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) While you'd hoped to be able to do some socializing by midweek, work obligations get in the way. Be careful since even innocent expenditures can mount into something more formidable.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I would like some advice and guidance on a familiar subject which you undoubtedly get many questions on. I am 43 years old and for the most part, an employed in a dead-end job with little prospect for advancement or significant increase in pay. Although I don't have a college degree, I have approximately a freshman college-level education. I feel I have more to offer an employer and would like a challenging role in the job market. One of my biggest concerns is my age and how much of a negative impact that might have on a new job search.

A: Does your firm offer any kind of one-on-one help in re-careering or starting over in the job market at middle age? Specifically, I would be looking for help in writing a precise and concise resume and targeting areas of interest which might help in a new job search. Any books, pamphlets or classes I could take would be greatly appreciated as well.

Q: Dear...Search: I enjoy reading your column in the Gurnee Press and look forward to hearing from you soon. Thank you for your assistance. Sincerely, M.W. - Waukegan.

A: Dear M.W. Thank you for your letter which is not only a "familiar subject", but one that is posed to me most often. You failed to mention to me what type of position you currently hold with your company and in what field. How long have you been employed with this company and how well versed are you in what you do? Does your firm offer any one-on-one help? Most definitely, and that is why it is important for me to have all the facts before I can advance into any type of career screening and advice on your behalf. Superior Personnel offers a refreshing approach to guidance in the career search in a most creative way, and we never charge applicants a fee for our advice or resume evaluation. We do offer a resume service at a low rate for printing and another for composing and printing; however, it would be my first attempt to guide you so as you may compose your own, as this is relatively easy, however time consuming on the part of someone looking to change careers. There are many books, classes and such that I may advise; however, with your information being so general at this point, it is virtually impossible for me to offer suggestions to you at this time, if I am clueless as to what it is you do, and what it is you desire in the way of change. What I would like to offer you, and those readers out there with the feeling of needing a change, give me a call and set up an appointment to come in. Let's see what we may be able to do to guide you in to a new career. It's painless ... and free. It may be the best hour you have spent discussing employment in a long time.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

High performance computing improves automotive products

High performance computing has played a critical role in reviving the U.S. automotive industry, affecting virtually every facet of its work, from enhancing product quality and reliability, to streamlining designs, improving vehicular safety and boosting fuel efficiency, while reducing production cost and shortening development time.

Much of the high tech pre-commercial research and development responsible for this revival has been made possible by federal HPCC funding to the academic supercomputing community and national labs, with positive repercussions throughout the entire economy, stimulating jobs, exports and profits.

There is no turning back

Problems that once took days or weeks to resolve, can now be handled in minutes or hours. Modifications that once took several months to implement can be realized in a matter of weeks. Over the past 10 years, crash simulation had become the largest user of computer resources in the automotive industry. Today very few costly, full-size crash models are built because computer simulations can do most of the work. All crash simulation software now used by U.S. automakers is based on software first developed at national labs and academic supercomputing centers. The following are examples of recent or current work with similar implications for the automotive industry:

Engineers at several Ohio universities are using the expertise and resources of the Ohio Supercomputer Center (OSC) to improve auto safety. One such project has already resulted in new hood and fender designs in the Ford Taurus. Trauma to the head is a frequent injury to pedestrians involved in automobile accidents, occurring when the head strikes the car hood. Using computational visualization techniques, researchers found that by incorporating simple, low-cost design modifications into existing car models the severity of such injuries could be reduced significantly.

Others are using OSC facilities to study the dynamics of an automobile crash, with the goal of developing door designs and paddings that mitigate injury causing forces.

Automobile design

In the early 1990's researchers for General Dynamics, working with the San Diego Supercomputer Center (SDSC), created a new manufacturing process to make molded auto panels from injected polymers. The panels were designed for the Chevy Lumina, and the process developed for manufacturing polymer parts is now used throughout the automotive industry.

Other research at SDSC, aimed at improving highway paving methods, is yielding information that can help auto manufacturers to design better tires, heavier loadings, improved truck suspension systems and axle configurations.

University of Toledo engineers currently are working on projects at the Ohio Center to minimize fatigue stress cracks in automobile shafts and to improve the operation of the crankshaft and rod bearings—all critical factors in automotive design.

Heavy equipment

Caterpillar, Inc., working in partnership with the National Center for Supercomputing Applications (NCSA) is using virtual reality technology to test and improve the efficiency of heavy

Dodge Ram holds value better than others

Dodge Ram will hold a lot of heavy equipment, building materials, farming gear and anything else truck owners need to haul around. But there's something the Dodge Ram holds better than any other truck—its value.

- Based on calculations using values from the N.A.D.A. official Used Car Guide®, Dodge Ram now has a high resale value than comparable Ford, Chevy and GMC trucks.

- A 3-year, 36,000 mile (whichever comes first) bumper-to-bumper limited warranty covers the complete vehicle against defects in factory-supplied materials and workmanship.

- The 3/36 Customer One Care Plan stays with the vehicle and transfers automatically to subsequent owners at no cost during the warranty period.

- Roadside Assistance for 3 years or 36,000 miles providing 24-hour, 7-day-a-week emergency road service, contracted by a 24-hour nationwide toll-free number.

- A 7-year or 100,000 mile outer-panel rust-through limited warranty.

- Special incentives for commercial truck buyers (see your dealer for details).

- All exterior sheet metal, including the roof is galvanized.

And don't let Dodge Ram's good looks fool you—the Dodge Ram was engineered for a hard day's work. Drivers can do more and be more comfortable in a 1996 Dodge Ram than ever before.

- Dodge Ram's interior is the roomiest on the market in both regular and Club Cab models.

- Ram pickup regular cab models provide more room for people and their stuff with more room behind the seat than any other pickup.

- Ram offers more three-across seating comfort with more shoulder and hip room than any other pickup.

- Center Business Console (located in the center arm rest) has unique storage features for items like personal computers, cellular phones, etc., need to help you get your job done.

DON GARLITS

Engine 'ping' may be caused by excessive carbon build-up

DON GARLITS

Q. We have a 1989 Toyota that we bought new in 1990. At around 30,000 miles my thermostat went bad. Since this incident, the car pings when the engine warms up. I have tried fuel of every kind plus additives, but with no success. My dealer has said he cannot find the problem. What do you think?

Robert G. Allentown, Pa.

A. I believe it's coincidental that the pinging started when the thermostat went bad. I suspect that the combustion chambers have excessive carbon in them, causing the "pre-ignition" that in turn is causing the pinging. The quick and expensive way to correct this is to remove the cylinder head and grind the valves. There are some fuel brands and additives that will remove the carbon over a period of time if the build-up is not too severe.

Q. I have a 1984 Chrysler Cordoba with over 150,000 miles on the car and 30,000 miles on the current motor. The motor, a 1978 225 super six, came from a junkyard and I had it totally rebuilt. I did, however, use the single barrel carburetor and intake from the original motor. Recently, I purchased a rebuilt Carter double barrel from Chrysler and put it on with the proper intake. Now I am getting 12 miles per gallon compared to 18 to 20 with the Holley single barrel. I've taken it into the garage twice, but they have said this is the best they can do and still make it run right. Spark plugs, wires, distributor, EGR, etc. are all new and check out fine. Nothing else has been changed. Was that a bad carburetor or was that year motor a real gas hog? I like my car, but the gas mileage is killing me!

Sylvia T. Green Bay, Wis.

A. The 1978 motor will definitely use more gas than the 1985, plus you put on twice as much carburetion. This will also decrease the mileage! Also, a better, more powerful engine will tend to cause the driver to "lead foot" the car. My suggestion, if mileage is important: Put the single-barrel carburetor back on the engine, retune it and drive real easy. Your mileage should improve.

Q. I have a 1992 Honda Accord LX. When I take my foot off the gas pedal, it lopes, bumps or jumps. This always happens. Most of the time when it shifts into second it jumps noticeably.

High performance

From C9 earth moving equipment. Design changes that once took between six and nine months to test and implement with computer-aided design blueprints and full scale wooden models, can now be made, at great savings, in less than one month. As a result, the company will introduce improved models of wheel loaders and back hoe loaders by 1996.

Better combustion

Researchers from the University of Texas at Austin are using the expertise and resources of the University's High Performance Computing Facility to study the effects of automobile pre-ignition more commonly known as engine knock in internal combustion engines, with the aim of improving combustion technology. Supercomputer modeling and computational fluid dynamics are used to examining internal chemically reacting flows, piston movements, and flame action in combustion chambers.

When I took it into Honda, they adjusted the transmission and suggested that I drive it on the "three" setting when in town. Otherwise, the action is normal for this car, they said. I don't believe it. This is my fourth Accord and I've never had this trouble with any of the others.

Catherine P. Ocala, Fla.

A. Believe me, this is not normal. I would get some management involved in your service dilemma, especially if you are a regular Honda customer.

Q. Since June 1994, I have experienced a vibration while driving my 1990 Ford at speeds of 50 mph or higher. I noticed it when returning home after having the wheel bearings repacked, among other things, at the dealer's service garage. When I took it back, I was told that I probably needed new tires. Once I had that done, the vibration seemed to be reduced. I had only three tires replaced, as they said that one of the wheels was still good, or at least had good tread remaining. Both the dealer and the tire company could sense the vibration but disagreed on the cause. I returned to the tire dealer and was told that the previously good rear tire was in fact bad. The tread was good, but the tire was bad structurally. I would appreciate your opinion on what it may be.

Margaret S. Vero Beach, Fla.

A. You did not indicate whether you replaced the "almost new" tire. I would have replaced all four tires, thus removing the possibility of leaving a faulty tire on the car. A frozen brake caliper can cause the vibration that you described, as can an improperly installed wheel bearing, bent rims, out-of-round tires (even new ones), or a bad driveshaft. Depending on the severity of the vibration, you may find it not worth the frustration of pursuing it. Personally, I wouldn't tolerate much vibration at all, because it tends to hurt other components on the car, such as shocks, bushings and ball joints, to say nothing about what it does to the joy of driving!

PET OF THE WEEK

A Good Bet!

Blackjack is an 18 month old male labrador mix. Mostly black with white markings on his chest, feet and tail tip, this handsome larger mid-size dog has a lean, sturdy build and a shiny short coat. Blackjack lost his home when his family moved to a no-pets building. Blackjack is housebroken and was raised with children. This terrific dog is smart, alert and is up to date on his shots. Blackjack has had some training - he sits on command, listens well and is eager to please. Blackjack is a loving, affectionate dog with a playful disposition and an outgoing personality. Without a doubt this fine dog misses his family and is longing to be loved again. Labs make outstanding family oriented pets. We think Blackjack will be a good bet for you! Call 55.

As a general rule, ALL DOGS benefit from basic housebreaking and obedience training which helps the dog to bond to a new owner. Crating is recommended when the owner is away, for the first year in a new home situation.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow-up care and much more. Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.

GATO DEL SOL
Handsoma stone veneer trim highlights the tremendous curb appeal of the exquisite Gato Del Sol. With the garage extended toward the front, a long walkway leads to the recessed entry. Here, a wraparound porch frames a large bay window. Whether you are sitting in the vaulted living room, or on a porch swing, the surrounding view is yours to enjoy.
Once inside this beautiful 2221 square foot home, the practicality of the unique floor design is evident. Isolated directly behind the living room, the master suite offers complete privacy along with such amenities as a generous walk-in closet and private bathroom with twin basins.
The central section of the plan features a spacious family room heated by a gas fireplace. Any gatherings may be held here in complete comfort. A side door allows access to an expansive covered deck. Facing the family room is the formal dining area. This arrangement lends an openness to the entire home that is sure to be appreciated. A U-shaped kitchen has been placed between the dining room and the breakfast nook, permitting the cook in the household to serve both formal and informal meals with ease.
Two good-sized bedrooms share a full bathroom, and each contains a water basin along with liberal closet space. If desired, one of the rooms may be converted for use as a home office, den, music room, or library. A game room, secluded to muffle the sound, has room for a billiard table, ping-pong or air hockey. For those wanting to keep fit, this is an ideal place to set up your exercise equipment, a convenient bathroom abuts the game room.
A serviceable utility room, located by the inside entrance to the garage, is a good location for discarding clothing before entering the house. The substantial three-car garage allows you to unload groceries immediately into the living area. This provides added safety, and yields protection from the weather. There is a large shop space for the hobbyist or do-it-yourself enthusiast.
For a study kit of the GATO DEL SOL (335-030), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number). For a collection of plan books, featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Leave us alone

Thank you, voters of Lake Zurich, for voting out Bulldozer Bob and his band of gypsies off the Lake County Board. Also, my thanks to the voters who voted for Robert Grever. I live in Lake Zurich and am opposed to developing. These builders come in, rape the land, make their money, and are off doing the same thing somewhere else. Why don't they go and develop land in Chicago where it's needed and leave us alone. It's time we take up a stand and give the message we're fed up with the developers and elected officials who let them rape us.

America the ashtray

I'm calling from the Antioch area. Recently, as I was driving my car behind two different cars, the driver threw their cigarette butts out the window. It's bad enough that you kill yourselves smoking, but don't be an unsafe litterbug. Put it in your car ashtray, and don't dump the ashtray on the ground. Don't you have any decency and common sense? So much for America the Beautiful!

It's about time

Bravo for the Grayslake Grade School Dist. 46 science curriculum committee, for selecting a program with the most teaching about evolution. It's about time that grade school children learn the truth about where they really came from, and not the myth parents and churches teach.

Help the deers

Attention, deer hunters, hunters of past, present and future, and concerned animal activists and animal lovers alike. The North Woods deer are in dire straits and need immediate help. Life-threatening serious situations exist. Because of excess snow and cold, the deer population has been almost cut in half. It's time to give back to the land and give respect to the deer, who need our support. There's six weeks left of winter with more snow and cold. For more information, call 1-715-479-2422. You can write this off your taxes.

What is it?

What the hell is a V-chip anyway?

Keep road blocks

I'm calling about the idiot who seems to think there's illegal gambling in Fox Lake. The slot machines in the bars are there for entertainment only and specify so on the machine. So Fox Lake and Lake County police can continue setting up those road blocks to catch the drunk drivers coming home from those bars.

Move away

We are a group of seniors who live in Saddlebrook Farms. We love our community and keep our houses up and do all we can to be a quiet, no-trouble area. We've paid taxes all our lives and all we want to do is go on with our lives in our community. To the few complainers, I want to say, if you don't like it, move. But I know you wouldn't be happy anywhere.

We enjoy it

A Saddlebrook resident appeared before the Round Lake Park Village Board and complained about poor lighting and muddy road conditions. We and other residents who've lived here over five years enjoy living in an adult community. We agree roads are sometimes muddy due to weather and construction traffic. It's unavoidable in new developments. To the resident who complained, if you don't like it, sell your house. We're sure you'll find many prospective buyers.

Good and bad

I want to brag about the Lake Villa St. Patrick's Day parade and also want to complain that the Lake Villa Record didn't have any pictures of the parade.

Reminder needed

I'm ready to scream. What is wrong with people who move into a nice neighborhood and the first thing they do is trash it? I mean, having cars, boats, trailers, etc. in their driveways. We moved from Chicago because of people not caring about their property. The sad thing is, we are unincorporated, so his thing is he can have anything he wants on his property. The village and police should remind him he can't.

Where's board?

This is a taxpayer in the Gavin School District. I'd like to know where the Gavin School Board is that we voted into office to take care of our schools and tax dollars. It seems to me that the superintendent, the principal, and a handful of his people are running the district, not the people we elected.

Congrats, Holly!

Congratulations to Holly Pomal for being honored and selected to work at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta. Your family is proud of you!

Good job, Jenni

Congratulations to Jenni Farias for winning the grand prize at a karaoke contest in Twin Lakes, Wisconsin! You were great!

Thanks, Bev

Congratulations and thanks to Beverly Peroni for getting some justice on our side. We all received our checks from the Vikings raffle. Good job, Bev!

Pulled a fast one

It appears that the three bricklayers at the College of Lake County who put the gang symbol into the bricks pulled a real fast one on the powers to be. How can we let them deface our brand new building with a picture of what they think is the Bulls symbol, but looks like something else. I think we should tear the wall down and get what we're paying for. This symbol shouldn't be allowed to stay.

Can't be hard enough

To the accused child molester in Fox Lake Vista, I'm sorry for the young victim whose life you may have destroyed, but I'm grateful you didn't choose my child as your victim. This would have destroyed my child's and my family's lives. I don't believe the justice system is hard enough on low-life scum like yourself. See LIPSERVICE page C24

LIPSERVICE

IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN

GET IT OFF YOUR CHEST (847) 223-8073

Lakeland Newspapers

It's unanimous

I'm from Lindenhurst and have read LIPSERVICE a few times, but haven't really paid much attention to it. We stopped our subscription three years ago because it seemed like the editorial staff didn't know what they were doing. My wife picked up a free copy the other day and this still seems to be true. The paper said the township residents rallied around "unanimously" to support a $4.7 million bond building. Unanimously doesn't mean 3,495 yes votes to 2,224. That means it's about 3 to 2, not unanimous. If someone edits, this paper could be a lot better.

Time for a survey

I believe it's time for all the news media and the Associated Press to start a survey, "Has your child been intimidated in school?" Has your daughter been asked to spend time with the principal after school because she may not pass? Recently, Montel Williams on his TV show, did such a case. Is this prevalent in the Chain O' Lakes area? If the survey was printed in the paper for students, I think the public would be surprised. Instead of a teacher's conference, the parents ought to investigate the teachers, instead of the other way around.

Doing it again

The Clintons are doing it to us again. Hillary and Chelsea in spring vacation in Bosnia and Turkey to raise morale for our troops? Come on, we're not all that stupid and gullible to accept that explanation of the trip.

Missing the boat

I'm calling from Fox Lake. I think Lakeland Press and the other papers are missing the boat. The Waterway Agency was acquiring that property in Fox Lake and I remember Dr. Dam stating that this was a good deal and the agency should buy it. He thought it was such a good deal, that he said he would buy it if the agency didn't. Since the property didn't appraise out, why doesn't Dr. Dam fork up the difference? He's the one that got the agency between a rock and a hard place. It's unfortunate that all that money was wasted on such a blunder.

How embarrassing

I'm in full agreement with all the callers about dictator Ken Hamsher, mayor of Fox Lake. How embarrassing for all of us to hear him shouting and treating other adults in sub-human ways.

Back to grass roots

It's good to see the grass roots politics is alive and well in Lake County. The upset victories of various people proves that. You must listen to the wishes of the people. Bob Depke wasn't doing that.

In trouble again

It seems like the Grant Twp. Commissioner may be in trouble again because he took it upon himself to add fill to a wetland at the end of a private road to gain personal access to a private lake. He used township resources to do it, but he most certainly better not use township equipment and time to remove it. By the way, will someone explain to the Grant Twp. officials the meaning of the word "nepotism?"

I agree

Amen to the person who called about her feelings about Vern Holmes. I totally agree with this person. I get tired of listening to his nonsense about the local schools. Not only is he ignorant of the facts, he's just plain ignorant.

Why is it allowed?

With regards to the illegal alien issue, why are so many allowed into our country? Cheap labor, that's why. We all know as a fact that an illegal alien will work for very low wages in jobs Americans won't take. True, taxes are taken out of their paycheck, but are never turned in to the government because of invalid social security numbers. So the business pockets the deductions. Restaurants and landscapers are the biggest employers of illegals.

Why's he so special?

I'm a neighbor of Trustee Jerry Mettingly and what I'm about to say I've seen with my own eyes. I'd like to know why this trustee gets special attention when his pipes freeze up? Why did the public works department come out to fix this when it wasn't their responsibility? Also, why did they come out to fix his frozen car door? Why doesn't everyone get the same service? I feel he should pay a plumber's service to the village since they cry broke. Maybe the time helping him should be spent fixing broken fire hydrants. Maybe the family that lost their home wouldn't have.

No more protection

to the west side means no protection for the east side. The park district is moving to the west side, so no park district on the east side. It's a shame. What's next, is the fire department moving, too? What is this city coming to?

They're all critics

I'm from Lake Villa. I completely agree with "Be positive," about Vern Holmes and his negative attitude. The whole BEST organization only offers criticism and no constructive solutions to the school funding problem. I volunteer hundreds of hours to the school districts and see for myself where money is needed. Thank goodness the voters in Dist. 41 are able to think for themselves and not be swayed by Mr. Holmes' ridiculous rhetoric.

The real story

I'm from Round Lake. The real story: In response to the illegal alien discussion, couldn't we stop the dissention between us? The real concerns are; multi-family residency causing overcrowding in our schools. The real estate tax doesn't cover the cost of educating so many regardless of ancestry; the demands being made to have everything connected with the public bilingual. The average citizen cannot take any more taxes. The long-time residents are being forced out of their homes and communities because of it and they're angry. Part of the solution could be a tuition paid for each child not included in the immediate family; i.e., mom, dad, and the children they bore. Cousins, etc., would have to pay extra to defray the cost of education. And like all our forefathers who came to this country had to do, learn to speak English. America is indeed a melting pot where we must all get along. The above is only a rough draft, but would be a start to help heal the wounds to make it a lot easier for all of us to love thy neighbor. Village fathers, it's time to address this issue today.

True colors shown

A woman called in last week to respond to someone who wanted an illegal alien law. She put that she was always taught you must graciously look at a person for who they are and not for their gender, race or cultural background. I was with them up until the end, when they said, "Because of a few, you stereotype all Hispanics. How white of you." I found it ironic that she was condemning someone else for being racist, and at the end she showed her own racism.

Cash Station leaves choice to banks

Cash Station Inc. announced that its board of directors has voted to permit its financial institutions members to determine individually whether they wish to impose ATM surcharges on cash withdrawals.

A "surcharge" is an ATM usage fee imposed by an ATM owner on customers of another financial institution. It is different from a fee that might be charged by a financial institution to its own customer for using the system. The board's action was taken in response to the recent decisions of Visa and MasterCard, the operators of the national ATM networks, to eliminate their bans on ATM surcharges.

Cash Station's rule change will take effect July 1, 1996. After that date, surcharges will commence only at those Cash Station ATMs whose owners elect to impose them.

The Cash Station network and the major national ATM networks—Cirrus and Plus—historically had prohibited member financial institutions from imposing surcharges except where permitted by law in 15 states. As of April 1, 1996, both Plus and Cirrus began to permit members to collect a surcharge on cash ATM transactions of customers with cards issued by U.S. financial institutions.

The Cash Station board acted to rescind the prohibition in the face of competitive realities. Because Cirrus or Plus financial institutions are free to impose surcharges and most Cash Station cards work in those machines, the prohibition would not have protected Cash Station cardholders from ATM owner fees.

The action taken by the Cash Station board will not necessarily result in the widespread advent of ATM surcharges. Each individual ATM owner will decide on its own whether to assess surcharges and will be accountable to the consumers' ability to "vote with their feet" and use ATMs with no surcharges. The prohibition was lifted only for withdrawals; Cash Station rules continue to prohibit ATM surcharges for deposits, balance inquiries and transfers between accounts.

Lakehurst mall marks its silver anniversary

Lakehurst Shopping Center will celebrate 25 years this month and the public is invited to join in the anniversary festivities April 20.

Customers who arrive early will have the opportunity to enjoy free coffee and mini buns from Cinnabon while supplies last, said Marketing Assistant Alicia Moore.

The center will also celebrate by offering patrons a special discount.

"Everyone who brings store receipts totaling $100 or more will receive a 10 percent rebate on their total purchase," Moore explained.

The celebration will also share a bit of history with visitors. "We're having a historical photo display from our archives," she added. Entitled "Then and Now," the display will be in the center court.

"We'll also have the Show Biz Kidz from the Talent Forum in Libertyville," said Moore. "They will perform on the center stage at 1 and 3 p.m."

Flatlander's brewpub celebrates the Midwest

SUZIE REED
Staff Reporter

Amid the whine of power saws and the roar of graders, the owners of Flatlander's are preparing to serve up their first glasses of micro-brewed beer next week.

Drivers along Milwaukee Ave. have watched the first tenant of the Village Green take shape at Olde Half Day Rd. in Lincolnshire. The building reveals the undeniable influence of the prairie style of Frank Lloyd Wright, a response to the excesses of the Victorian era reflecting the essence of simple Midwestern values, said partner and Brewmaster Rick Westervelt.

"The whole theme is very Midwestern, the 'Flatlander's' work ethic, architecture and cuisine," he explained. "The things we have to have we will make beautiful; we will focus on the things that have to be here, and pay attention to details."

Westervelt, along with President John Jacobs and Operations Manager Lance Bell, began to plan for the restaurant more than a year ago.

"We didn't have a name or know where we were going to put it," said Westervelt. With $3 million from 35 private investors, they began construction in February, with 60 workers on the site every day. Flatlander's will be the first official building in "downtown" Lincolnshire," he said.

The brewpub will feature a tap room that the owners see as a "community gathering spot," with round pub tables, cozy booths, board games, and a stage where entertainment will include bands from Austin, Texas. Behind the stage is a glass wall protecting the storage tanks, "where the finished beer lives," said Westervelt.

"We will focus on letting people see the brewery," he said. "We are very proud that we can bring a very unique product to our customers. We want to reeducate people about the different types of beer."

In order to allow customers to experience the various tastes, Flatlander's will not only offer a sampler tray featuring six 4-ounce glasses, they will also give out free sample "splashes" to those who just want a taste to make up their mind which to order. The menu will offer six standard brews and one or two specials.

"We want to make sure people buy what they are going to consume," said Westervelt. "We want people to enjoy themselves."

At Flatlander's, European grains (malted barley and wheat) from Scotland, England and Belgium steeped in sugar water and poured through an Italian filter. Then they are combined with hops (flowering spices) and put in large fermentation tanks where they can be seen from outside, even at night, when spotlights will illuminate the area. Mike Duchow of Chicago is the head brewer.

The serving tanks, with a capacity of 30 kegs, are located near the entrance in a long lobby that features a residential setting at one end. Morris chairs and prairie style tables and lamps share the area with prints of old beer ads.

"It's the heart of the place," said Westervelt. The dining room, he said is the "jewel of the whole building," a place where families can sit down and enjoy a meal. A double-sided fireplace also serves a private meeting room that could be used as a smoking section on busy nights, said Westervelt. Great attention has been paid to detail throughout the building, with all the lights, booths and carpet designed along the prairie theme.

"There is a big focus on making this place very operational and functional," he said.

A beer garden will allow patrons to enjoy meals outdoors. A hearth oven will produce beer and cheese bread. "Bread is like beer," quipped Westervelt. "You just use a lot less water!"

The kitchen will be under the See FLATLANDER'S page C2

Home Builders set Arbor Day program

The Home Builders Association of Lake County (HBALC) announces its 1996 Arbor Day Celebration April 20 through 28. Sponsored by Seigle's Home & Building Center, HBALC participating builder-members will distribute six to 12-inch seedlings to the first 200 visitors at specific model/spec home sites.

The association will also be hosting tree-planting ceremonies and educational programs at a number of Lake County elementary schools. The school programs are being sponsored by Hendricksen, The Care of Trees.

For information on participating builders or to learn about the Arbor Day Celebration and other HBALC programs, call 816-4663.

Wendy's franchises support not-for-profit organizations

The Lagniappe Group, the largest Wendy's franchisee in the northern suburbs, is directly contributing to the bottom line of more than 85 Lake County charities and not-for-profit organizations. The Lagniappe Group enhanced its fund raising program, the "Your Choice Card.™"

When customers present a "Your Choice Card" at any of the five Lagniappe Group Wendy's, the company donates a minimum of 5 percent of their total sale to the customers' designated Lake County charity or not-for-profit of choice. As an added donation incentive, Lagniappe will contribute 15 percent of each dinner order and all day Sunday orders to the Lake County organizations.

Quarterly, the Lagniappe Group mails checks to each registered charity and not for profit organization. The largest recipients of donations in the most recent pay-out were: Northpointe Achievement Center (Zion), Beach Bible Church (Zion), and Wesley Church (Waukegan).

The Northpointe Achievement Center in Zion received the highest number of contributions. Sally Gaca, Grant Writer, reported that she used the first Your Choice Card check to hold a Christmas party for Northpointe clients and successive checks will be used for a variety of activities. "I'm promoting this program everywhere; to my staff, board of directors and in our newsletter," she said.

Steve Kemp, treasurer of Zion's Beach Bible Church, is equally impressed. "We are absolutely thrilled by the concept," he said. "We are earmarking all Your Choice Card funds for the new playground that we have wanted to build here at the church," he added.

Wendy's customers and organizations can sign up to participate in the "Your Choice Card" program at any of the Lagniappe Group Wendy's restaurants located at: Route 60 & Lakeview, Vernon Hills; 2560 Skokie Highway, Highland Park; 2110 Green Bay Road, North Chicago; 2005 Lewis Avenue, Waukegan; 3400 Sheridan Road, Zion; or call 487-3400 for application forms.

For a nominal fee, participants in the Your Choice Card program will receive a magneti-cally-encoded card (much like a credit card). Their name and the not-for-profit group's name is embossed on the card. Whenever a participant visits a Lagniappe Wendy's in Lake County, an employee will slide the Your Choice Card through a specially-designed register. Every three months, the charities and not-for-profit organizations will automatically receive a check. It is Lagniappe's hope that with ever expanding membership and patronage to increase the amount of donations every three months.

Clark acquires 10 outlets

Clark USA, Inc., through its subsidiary Clark Refining & Marketing, Inc., announced that it has acquired 10 retail gasoline and convenience stores from Bell Fuels, Inc. of Chicago, which operated under the name of Road Pilot/Road Pantry.

"This acquisition is an integral part of Clark's aggressive strategy to grow in the Chicago area," said Brandon Barnholt, chief operating officer and executive vice president of marketing. "These high volume outlets complement our existing assets and assist us in achieving our market share goals."

The 10 locations are in the west and northwest suburbs of Chicago, and alone represent 32 million gallons of gasoline sold per year to drivers in the Chicago metropolitan area. This is enough gasoline to fill-up every car in the City of Chicago.

The company first initiated its strategic marketing plan to grow when it completed the acquisition of 35 retail gasoline and convenience stores located throughout the Northwest suburbs of Chicago from State Oil Co. of Grayslake last year.

The acquisition includes a location at 301 Town Line Rd. in Mundelein.

Flatlander's

direction of Chef Rob Macey, who comes to Flatlander's from 1776 in Crystal Lake.

Ribs are topped with Harvest Amber BBQ sauce; bratwurst is boiled in the ale. The menu includes something for any appetite, with soups, salads, entrees, sandwiches, pasta and burgers.

Appetizers feature favorites as well as unique taste treats. Flatlander's Sampler offers spicy sausages, Wisconsin cheese, a baked pretzel and sauerkraut. In addition to the six standard beers (Olde Orchard Ale, Prairie Wheat Beer, Harvest Amber Ale, 80 Shilling Ale, Abe's Honest Ale, and Locomotive Stout), Flatlander's offers more than 30 different wines.

A non-alcoholic beer is available, as is Flatlander's draught rootbeer.

More than 150 employees have joined the Flatlander's endeavor and are undergoing rigorous training. In keeping with the Midwestern work ethic, the restaurant offers insurance benefits and vacations to their workers.

The restaurant will be open for lunch and dinner, with luncheon hours from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and noon to 4 p.m. on weekends. Dinner is served from 4:30 to 10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 4 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 4:30 to 10 p.m. Sunday. A children's menu is available.

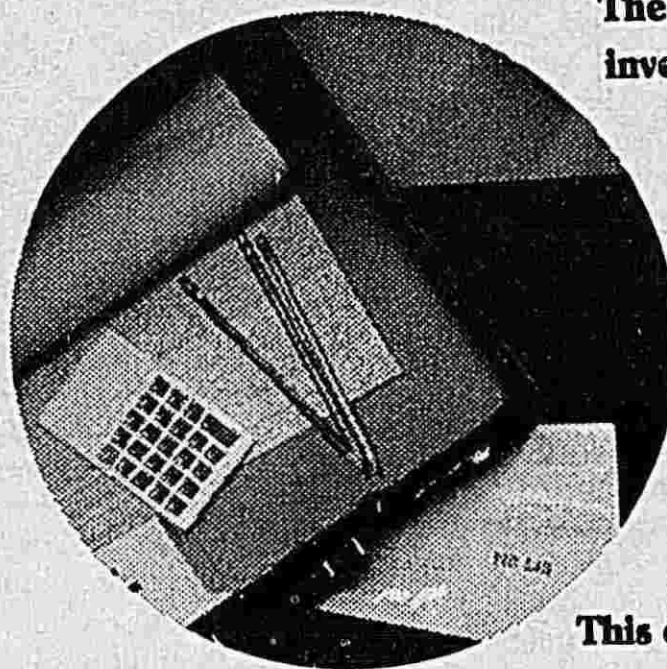

Flatlander's will offer patrons a sneak preview of the restaurant during a special benefit to help the Riverside Foundation, a facility for mentally handicapped adults in Lincolnshire.

From 5 to 8 p.m. April 21, the restaurant will offer a sampling of all their menu items and beers for a donation of $15 for adults. This is a family event; teens can enjoy the evening for $10, those younger than 12 will be admitted free.

The restaurant will have at least four units in the Chicagoland area by the end of next year, said Dan Friedlander, public relations contact for Flatlander's.
